. . .Where Credit Is Due

MISSY COGGWOIA

Missy-

It was great having an older sister around ~~this~~ for my freshmen year. I'm glad in a way you are graduating, but also sad. It is going to be strange walking down the main hall next year and not seeing one of your glares. Thanks for all the advice you gave me this year. I'm going to miss you!

Love,
Chrissy

Well Miss, I never thought I'd sccya graduate! Just kidding ♡ You've done a lot for me & have meant a lot to me. I guess you being my sisters best friend makes you mine, and I do consider you that. I hope you get all you want out of life, and all the guys you can handle! Thanks for being there when no one else was. I ♥ love you lots, Miss!

PS- Promise to keep in touch ♡ Gayla Selinger

Where Credit is Due

These four years we spend here at San Ramon are the busiest years of our lives. Remember the night that you stayed up until 2:30 in the morning, studying to ace Mrs. Hunter's chemistry test? Remember sitting in the cold bleachers to cheer on the football team at the "Big Game"? Or, how about all those Friday afternoons spent finishing up homework so you could go to the Rec. Dance that night!

Remember running to the lunch line so you could get a piece of pizza before they ran out? Or, running all over town to find the perfect costume for Theme Day. Remember swimming all those laps for Freshman P. E.? Or, how about working for two hours at your class pizza night for a slice of pizza and a lot of fun?

Ken Pickett, Leona Goldt, and Chris Dunn do the twist on the Junior float.

A wet Gordon Sinclair wonders, "What has happened to my legs — where did they go?"

Craig Dolley and Jack Pendarvis rev him, "Here we are, guys!"

Freshmen Bitsy Schneider and Lisa Bronco posing for a Pepsi ad.

We all have our own individual memories of San Ramon. Although they may vary from dancing the night away to sitting home, cuddled up in a warm blanket, watching a scary movie, . . . they all deserve credit because they are all important in their own special way!

In the end, we always put forth our best and the rewards, the memories, the friends, and such stay with us! So give yourself a pat on the back and give credit where credit is due!

UPPER AND LOWER CLASSMEN

Both upper and lower classmen have finess at San Ramon. The difference is that upper classmen dominate and lower classmen strive to one day emulate them. LIVE IT UP

WEEKENDS

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday . . . T.G.I.F. — time for the weekend. The long awaited two-day vacation — a students chance to relax, party, and just basically have fun. No matter how a student spends his forty-eight hours away from books, blackboards, and grammar, the time is well spent.

Many "San Ramonians" spend their weekend nights searching frantically for the often times non-existent "ripper". Even more often, they find themselves "munching" at Dennys or Burger King and hanging out at the ever-popular 7-11 parking lot. (Thank goodness for the Friday night rec dances that entertain us without wasting gas or driving around.)

Before the seasons change, students also spend their weekends catching a few wakes waterskiing and soaking rays on Santa Cruz beaches. With the opening of Winter, however, students break out the ski gear and hit the slopes with enthusiasm. No matter what the time, what the event, or who the person — weekends are a well deserved break from the dilemas of school. So "take a walk on the wild side" this weekend and "live it up" — 'cause we've got weekends - so let's have some fun!

FRIENDS

Friends are incredible people. They know everything about us, good and bad, yet they still like us! And who else is always therre when we need them? Yep, you guessed it — our friends. What would we do without them? Who would we eat lunch with, go to parties with or tell our deepest secrets to? They are the most important people in our lives.

Friendship defies age and ignores distance.
It weathers the hard times and shares the good.
Together we have found
this.
Our friendship has provided acceptance and understanding in a world
that pushes people apart.
But I will always remain with the memories of the times we have shared
knowing how fortunate
I am to be able to call you my friend.

Cashing in on . . . style

Charge! Off we go into the everchanging fun-filled, fashion-finding world of style. Each year the San Ramon campus boasts different fashion trends and their followers. From the Preppie to the Rocker to the simple minded, "I don't care what I wear," we have the style!

Each student expresses their individuality with his own personalized dress. As seniors BOB SMITH and MELINDA ZIMMERMAN say, "Fashion is a way of expressing yourself." Although styles change from year to year, San Ramon students are always looking inCREDITable. Freshmen JODI BENATAR, TOM DOAN, and DINA KRINSKI "love to dress up." No matter what style is chosen: New Wave, Preppie, Rocker, trendy, Punk, casual, or one of their own, students are always looking like a million.

As with every year, this year's fashion finders have discovered fun and fantastic fads. The crazy, colorful, SWATCH is among the most popular. Following not far behind, this new find in watch-wear is the returning paisley. This biological looking shape decorates the apparel of many students. Pearls, lace-up boots, and rhinestone pins lead many to the look of the twenties.

Through all the fashion trends, however, one item seems to be one step ahead of the rest — good ol' 501 jeans. Bleached, torn, written on, black, gray, white, red, turquoise, or yellow — they're always in style! As junior JOHN FEFLEY says, "I love 'em. I'll keep them forever."

As with fashion, hairstyles also change with the trends of time. Although such fads occur, each student wears the hairstyle that he or she feels most comfortable in. From short to long hair to blond hair to magenta hair, each reveals a bit of style. Even though the bob and shorter spiked hair lead the path of popularity, there is no way to go wrong. As sophomore SHANNON O'NEIL says, "It doesn't matter how or who wears the hair, so long as it expresses their individuality."

So let's give ourselves some CREDIT: the fashion-findiing trendies, wild expressionists, and even fun-loving casuals of San Ramon. No matter how the hair or clothes are worn, fashion is fashion and you are you. That is what is so special about it — you've got your own style. And remember, as senior RAJ KAPUR says, "That's Rad!" So here's to all of us — where credit is well deserved.

LOCKERS!!!

Remember grade school? When older brothers and sisters spoke of high school, a certain vision of what it would be like was instilled in your mind; continuous dating, different classes, and lockers. Lockers seemed, to your young mind, to be a certain status symbol; where it was located, how it was decorated, and how well the combination worked, all reflected what kind of person you were. Then, once in high school, you couldn't wait to be a senior and have the Ultimate Status Symbol: a Main Hall locker. This year seniors stood in line for hours one summer morning a week before school began to receive their locker. Some even braved the wild animals and slept outside of the Hall with a tent, a campfire, and sleeping bags.

Main Hall lockers have characteristics all their own. Most of them defy the definition of "locker" — they don't lock. This makes for a very trusting atmosphere, but is sometimes scary. After all, who wants to leave a purse or camera in a community locker? Crowds pushing through the hall compete with the innocent senior trying to fit into a foot-wide space, but after a while, he or she gradually becomes a veteran of holding ground and pushing back.

With all of the drawbacks, Main Hall lockers provide, the advantages are generally greater than the disadvantages. In times of cold and rain, the hall is a place to hang out, stay warm and dry, and eat while enjoying great conversation. In the immortal words of WILL GRAY, "It's bad, Dude!"

The funny part about the vision of lockers you had is that they are a definite pain. The combinations never open on the first try and the doors tend to jam. Some lockers in the D and E wings have recently been set on fire. Lockers are spread throughout 3 wings, making 5 minutes seem very short. Besides all of the logistical inconveniences, regular lockers are small and ugly (BROWN?!). Many students, particularly girls, tend to make their locker a "home away from home," complete with carpet, wallpaper, pictures, magazine ads, notepads, and mirrors.

"Meet me at my locker" is heard by all throughout the day. The banks are a common meeting place, and much socializing, planning, gossiping, and necking take place in these areas. Students who were asked all agreed that the social aspect redeemed the lockers from being a complete nuisance.

It's a good thing lockers don't have mouths to tell all of our secret habits, or scream in pain as we slam their doors. They are, whether we like it or not, a part of our lives, and an extension of ourselves. Be kind to yours.

DIVERSITY: A DISTINCTNESS OF A KIND

"Diversity is in the eyes of the beholder" rephrases SYLVIA PERFETTO. The question stated: Do we have diversity at San Ramon or not? Just thinking differently from others is diverse, and we definitely have varied interests at our school. "It's how you think that's different. There aren't groups at this school, just people", states senior ERIC LUBBOCK. The "people" at San Ramon are what intrigue others about our school. We have students with hobbies that range from academics to sports to studying the arts. Your interests reflects your true personality.

Senior CHRIS GARCIA believes there is more emphasis on cliques at San Ramon than diversity. "The few people who are diverse are the ones who make up the school. "Often, though, cliques are confining to those who believe they exist at San Ramon. Junior BRENT CAMPBELL expresses that we should, "accept people for what they are and not what they appear to be." "Everyone should be what they want to be!" says junior KIM PICKETT.

Diversity: a distinctness of a kind. We are all distinct from one another. Junior MARK LANSBURGER sums up the idea of diversity. "If everyone were alike, there would be no originality. Diversity gives others a chance to express themselves. It reflects the way they are."

The 25th Annual Royal Court

The San Ramon High Academy Awards ceremony commenced on November 1, 1985, at the 25th annual Homecoming rally. Everyone was hanging on edge as the nominees for King and Queen were read. And the winner is . . . well, the envelopes seemed to be misplaced, but at last announcers Amy Blunden and Greg Born revealed the roles of Senior King, Brian Jewett and Senior Queen, Ann Olson. Supporting senior roles were filled by Princess Cassi Synder and Prince Steve Martin, along with Princess Janice Anthony and Prince Barry Tonge. In the junior category, Marty Geifman escorted Heather Hoelsken to receive their crowns. Sophomore royalty was Princess Lisa Heller and Prince Tim Maroney. Alvin Abrian was voted freshmen class Prince along with his Princess, Chris Cavender.

HOMECOMING 1985

Beach, Halloween, Back to the Present

It was the best Homecoming week ever. Sunny weather and a lot of cheer, fun and spirit were the predictions for Homecoming week. Wed., S.R. caught the surf and beach bummed out all day long. San Ramonians played Volleyball all day in the rays. As the sun went down, a new day arose bringing gremlins, witches, and an entire variety of far-out and original costumes. Thurs., Halloween brought the best out of all of us as we became someone or something different for a day. We danced all night at the Mascarade Ball, woke up Fri. and hopped into our outfits of the past and present. The class of '86 went hippy in the 60's, '87 went rock-n-rolling back to the 50's, '88 went razzle-dazzling back to the 20's, and '89 came back to the awesome 80's. Way to go, San Ramon! You showed us your best all week long. Credit is due for the spirit shared at the ralley, the victorious game, and the entire Homecoming week.

Faculty

Administration

This year, the administration of San Ramon High did some outstanding work, during their normal routine of managing the school. Principal Jim Henderson finally found the solution to the litter problem. He told the student body, that if on Friday, the campus wasn't clean, they would lose their brunch for the whole next week. At first, the proposal was opposed, but, eventually, it was accepted and carried out. Jim Henderson liked the progress of the plan so much, that one Friday he let school out at 2:30, instead of 3:01.

The counselors — Ken Bartsch, Nora Fisher, Deborah Poropat and Genevieve Koerner — headed by Dr. Alice Sund, did wonders, too. After helping with schedule changes and parent-teacher-student conferences, they even found time to deal with personal problems among students. Also they helped seniors with college applications and graduation credits.

The Vice-Principals, Bob Scott, Rich Boschetti, Neil Smith and Carolyn Broback were Mr. Henderson's right hand people. When Mr. Henderson couldn't patrol the campus, they were walking their beats. If there was a problem, involving a student, they solved it. Mr. Smith helped organize the new senior parking lot. Thanks to Mr. Smith's organization, the seniors of '86 and beyond have a place to park that is their own.

The secretaries at San Ramon High are the real backbone of the school. Without the secretaries, this school would close down in five minutes. They worked constantly answering phones, writing up excuse notes and making out reports cards on a computer.

There are many more who help make this school run smoothly; to all, credit is due.

Math

This year, the math department had its ups and downs. The department had 20 new additions. In the middle of the first semester, the now dead Nova computer, left San Ramon High campus. The computer program had to go on, the school bought the math department, 12 AT&T computers and 8 IBM computers. Also included in the package were 5 new printers. This whole package cost the school $60,000, but it was well worth the price. As one computer student said, "The Nova was an inferier computer, we need these computers to stay competitive with the other computer programs at other schools!" The department had another new addition, Christine Zahn. Welcome to San Ramon High!

One of the math department members suffered a great loss this past winter. Gary Sjordal is a hardcore 49er's fan. When the 49er's lost their wildcard game against the N.Y. Giants, he was devastated. But like all good sports, he will bounce back for next season.

Hopefully next year will be just as eventful for the math department. I don't see how they can top $60,000. worth of computers, but if anybody can, the math department will devise an equation to solve the problem.

Social Studies

Most of the Social Studies teachers have never taught us anything else but good ol' S.S. When asked what he liked best about teaching Mike McGinnis answered "getting paid — haha." Seriously, each teacher agreed that the student were the best aspect of their careers. And once again Mr. McGinnis plays on our interest by informing me that he used to have a career spent in a police station as "Officer McGinnis."And when Jim Nelson was asked if he had anything to say he casually replied, "not particularly. Physical Education

At first thought many people view Physical Education as being easy to teach. No papers to correct, no lesson plans to make — so why in the world would it be difficult?

Well, it is. Each P.E. teacher said he spends 10-12 hours a week out of the classroom doing school related tasks. Hans Delannoy, however, is the "protege of Physical Education teachers" with an "intense" average of 35 hours a week. On top of teaching S.R. students athletics, these teachers often spend time giving us advice about health and safe driving.

So the next time you think these P.E. teachers have it easy, you're a real, as Glenna Rizzo says, "Jerkified Thing."

The other teachers are Rich Ault, Ed Beard, Mike Church, Lisa Condon, Kris Donovan, Debbie Lindo, Patti Mortenson, Karyn Ott, Karin Perkins, Sheila Peverill, Jerry Reid, Richard Rutherford, Barbara Quibell, Marybeth Williamson, and Patricia Raventos. But this department doesn't just conjugate verbs, they do a lot! The entire department attended workshops on grading essays, and poetry. Mr. Church, and Mrs. Mortenson took a field trip to see a George Bernard Shaw play in S.F. Mr. Beard had a panel discussion on evolution, and this was just the beginning. Foreign Language

"Foreign Language? UG!" And so it goes. Most people despise foreign language, but unfortunately, everyone has to take two years of it, or at least get up to level two. So you're stuck. But, if you look deeper, behind a thousand different verb tenses, and endless vocabulary, you'll find a culture, a people. And it's actually interesting!. "It's good to take foreign language because you learn about new people, a different culture. And you never know when you're going to need it!" says Stacey Merrill, senior, and a Spanish student. The teachers at San Ramon try to make it more interesting by decorating their rooms and creating clubs like Spanish, French and the International Club, to get students interested. The teacher, headed by Mrs. Quesnoy, are Silve Estrada, Cheryl Williams, Linda Hutchings, Lino Nivelo, a Carolyn Thiessen, Brenda Markson, Betsy Hoffman, and Marie Wagnon.

Business

The business department offers many classes such as accounting, business skills, secretarial skills, typing, and R.O.P.. These classes are getting San Ramon students ready for the future. Teachers are working to teach their students how to type and how to run computers. The skills that will be learned will be used throughout high school, college, and the rest of one's life. A new business building was added this year, and if you haven't taken advantage of its new equipment, do so now. The machines are there to help you and make your work easier. That Fateful First Day of School

Yes, you Freshmen (or is that freshmen) remember that fateful first day! You started it off by kissing your mom goodbye from the car, getting off the bus, or just locking up your bike. You then wandered around, trying to find your first class, and some Senior gave you directions that left you at Rotten Robbie's in Alamo. Your first teacher then convinced you that there was an Anti-Christ, and he was alive and well in Danville. You somehow survived that first step, but the next class proved to be the ultimate in 20th century brain death. Next came brunch, where you immediately fled to your friends, hoping to find some security in this strange new world. Guys sat back and tried to convince themselves that they too could land a date with a Senior girl, while the girls gathered together and blushed prettily on cue at the remarks of the upperclassmen.

Next came two more classes, and though you tried to butter up your teachers and convince them of your brilliance and overall angelic behavior, it seemed you were doomed in those classes before you walked in the door. One teacher even fondly remembered your brother, who firebombed his house the year before. Now you got to escape on another break, though. You rushed to the cafeteria, excited because you were without a lunch box for the first time. Your new-found happiness was dashed by that nightmare on a styrofoam plate known as — the school lunch. You tried to convince yourself that everything was edible, but somehow that idea didn't work. If your lunch wasn't bad enough, you also had to deal with those acorns thrown by the Seniors. These tiny missiles of death soon found their way into places like your milk carton, your food, or even your ear. Some would have given up and gone home by now, but not you, you continued on and headed to your final two classes. After enduring them, you tried to tell yourself that they were painless, but an essay for homework just didn't cut it.

Yes, that first day was a very trying experience, but you better get ready for the next three years.

Dina Krinsky is Just Horsing Around

Hard working, determined, and talented; qualities deserving credit. Qualities that Freshman DINA KRINSKY shows proudly, and "show" is what she does best. This fourteen year old San Ramon student shows horses. She rides English in the Hunter-Jumper division. She is judged on the horse's form over a course of jumps, each fault deducting her total score. In addition she rides in Equilation where the rider is judged rather than the horse.

Dina began riding seriously about two years ago, when she was Equitation grand champion in the 10-13 year old division at the Santa Barbara horse show. During the next year she was the Children's Hunter Champion and won the Children's Hunter Classic at the Fox Hollow Horse Show. Later in 1985, Dina began showing in the Junior Hunter Division. This was much more difficult for her and her horse because of the added six inches on the jumps. Yet with her determination and three hours of practice five days a week, Dina and her horse once again became champion.

Dina owns four championship horses, all of which are cared for dearly. Billy, age 5, is a chestnut color Hannovarian, showing under the name "Idol-ized." At the age of 7, Tucker has been champion two out of three shows. His show name is "Nantucket" and he is a Dutch Warmblood. Dina has another Dutch Warmblood named Wendy, who has remained "Wendy" for her eight years of showing. Finally, there is Lizzie. At the age of 25, Lizzie only has memories of her showtime days under the name of "Pink Chablis."

Loving and caring for each horse has lead Dina and her horses to a yearly championship. Together, Dina and her horses have trotted their way to the top. So here's to you Dina Krinsky — a real champion!

Frosh: Taking Charge!

This years class officers have proved to give a lot of spirit to the Freshman class. The officers were headed by ALVIN ABRIAN as President, JENELLE LINDSAY as class Secretary, and MOLLY BLUNDEN as class Treasurer.

The officers are trying to get their classmates involved in more school activities. The Homecoming float had an overwhelming response with many students showing up to build it. This is what gets everyone together, and brings out school spirit. Other activities the Freshman took part in were a two week candy sale, and the selling of cookies and brownies at the Ski Swap which raised $160.00. The officers also had a car wash, and sponsored a Rec Dance. The money raised is going toward their Junior Prom.

All officers agreed that there was trouble trying to get more students involved. But they all agreed that it was fun getting to meet people and feeling that they were doing something for their school.

Being an officer takes a lot of responsibility which is often hard to make time for. Everyday they met in leadership class and discussed plans to bring spirit into their class. The Freshmen class officers set a terriffic example for their class to follow.

"Driver's Training"

Rrrrrrr . . . er! CRASH! "Uh, sorry Mr. Nelson, I didn't, uh, see that, er, tree." Those are probably VERY familiar words to ANY of our Driver's Training teachers here at S.R. Those few brave men (Craig T. Nelson, Jim Nelson, Steve Strobel, & Mike McGinnis), who are willing to place their lives in the hands of, LAST YEAR'S FRESHMEN!

However, before one can watch these gentlemen squirm under their tightly fastened seat-belts (and crash helmets), one must pass the permit test. This, my friends, is where they get their revenge. Questions like: If the road is blocked by a herd of animals, you a) honk the horn until they move b) speed up and HOPE they move c) obey the person in charge., seem to be put there simply to keep you OFF the road. I suppose the teachers are entitled to their fun too. (Which by the way is MINIMAL compared to seeing the looks on their faces when you start the car.)

When asked his most memorable accident this year, Jim Nelson laughed and asked how severe I wanted it. "We were making a left turn from Sycamore onto Old Ranch Rd., everything was cool. Then I must've blinked or something, because before I knew it we had jumped the curb, ridden up on the sidewalk, and were sitting on the Ed. Center's lawn!" (The student driver responsible for this "incident" shall remain nameless due to Jim Nelson's good nature.)

Perhaps "Safest Way Driving School" is safer, but I think what one puts the teachers through is an experience not to be missed. Those of us through that part of our lives, who are still stable of course, pat yourself on the back . . . for you have just passe through The Twilight Zone!!!

Big Things Come in Small Packages

At 5'3" and 110 pounds, Gerald Hatley, a sophomore wrestler at San Ramon this year, is living proof of the old cliché, "Big things come in small packages." Though wrestling is one of the most demanding sports, Gerald has met the challenge quite competently. Last year as a Varsity wrestler Gerald became the first freshman in history to win the North Coach Section Tournament crown. Gerald had already wrestled 8 years, but when asked how he felt entering the championship match, Gerald simply commented, "I thought I was going to get my butt kicked."

Leaving the past behind, Gerald hopes to trade his wrestling ability for a college scholarship someday. Gerald attributes his success to his father and Jamie Roberson, a family friend and assistant coach at San Ramon. "Wrestling is a tough, character-building sport. Sometimes you feel like quitting, but they've always been there to help and encourage me along the way." Pushed about any wrestling past college (do the Olympics lie ahead?), Gerald only shrugs and says, "If I wrestle my best and something else comes along because of it — all the better."

DAN FILNER: COMPUTER BUFF

It's lunch time. You walk into the computer room and find it quiet except for the murmurs of a few computers, operated by a few students. Over in the corner you see Dan Filner working on yet another graphic picture on one of the new IBM computers.

Dan has been interested in computers since fourth grade. He spends almost all of his extra time creating new and more difficult programs. He owns a Commadore home computer, and is presently working on an elaborate bullitin board system.

Academically, Dan has a lot going for him. As a sophomore, he is already taking caculus and computer 3. Dan carries a 3.7 G.P.A. and hopes to attend college in the East. Once in college Dan says he plans to major in computer sciences. When asked his career goal Dan stated, "I want to someday program computer games for some big company."

"The hardest thing about being an officer is being at leadership class at 7:30 in the morning!!" said Gayla Selinger.

Soph Officers Create Spirit

Who said a woman couldn't make a good president? Gayla Selinger, Sophomore president, has taken charge of the class of '88 and has put in all her efforts to encourage more spirit and pride among her classmates. She is aided by her vice-president, Greg Hertens, with his constant input, as he is aware of all the sophomore happenings. Meg McCardle, class secretary, is in charge of keeping track of all the ideas for class activities, and the treasurer, Jenni Elders, plans the Budget for the year and administers refunds.

Being an officer requires much dedication. The officers agreed that the time sacrifices were the least enjoyable parts of their jobs. What is enjoyable though, is the feeling of accomplishment that they achieve. Meg McCardle and Jenni Elders said they liked being directly involved in the planning of their class' activities. Meeting people and working with them satisifies vice-president Greg Bertens, but Gayla wishes to continue with her class communication by running for junior class president next year. She wants to because "I have so much that I want to do, that I need one more year to finish."

After proving herself successful, we wish Gayla good luck for next year.

Skating To The Top

What do you do with those extra early hours every morning? If you're Cameron Birkey, you are ice skating. Cameron gets up every morning at four 4 a.m. to be down at the skating rink in Fremont by 5 a.m. He then skates until nine, comes home and goes to school. But it is worth it. Cameron has won every competition he's been in this year so far. Why does he do it? "I meet lots of people, and go lots of places." So far Cameron has been to Washington, Utah, Kansas, Los Angeles, Berkeley, and San Francisco for competitions. If things keep going well, he has a good chance to go to New York. But still, aren't there drawbacks? "Most people think skaters are gay, like ballerinas. That's what I hate about it." Cameron's dream is to go to the Olympics and at this pace, he's sure to make it!

Those Old Junior Blues: Have You Got 'Em?

Do you have at least 4 hours of homework every night? Is your GPA slightly lower than last year? Do you think you are the only one who is being mentally tortured by your chemistry teacher!?! If you have answered yes to at least 2 of these questions, odds are, you are a junior. Junior year is by far the hardest year academically and physically of all high school years. A typical schedule includes; US History — which demands you to know, in what year was the Spanish Armada; Algebra 2 which asks you to solve ridiculous equations which you'll never use in life; American Thought which requires you to know what Edgar Allen Poe meant in the story "The Fall of the House of Usher."; and last, but not least (least liked) chemistry.

After we have mastered all of the information thrown our way, we must then test our knowledge bright and early on a Saturday morning at the dreaded (dreadful) PSAT. When it's over, and you finally get your scores, you realize that you hardly earned more than the 200 points you received for writing your name correctly. Of course, there is always next time and now you know what you need to work on.

EVERYTHING!

Another trauma juniors face is around Christmas time when you hear that sophomore that you've always disliked, received a new Porsche for Christmas. It really makes you wonder if it's all worth it.

Then comes that important dance (the Junior Prom) when you pray that the guy or girl you've liked since your freshman year doesn't ask the sophomore with the new Porsche! Well, there's still the Senior Prom.

The only solution to ease the Junior Blues is weekends and anticipating next year. But hang in there because you are not the only one who is sick of chemistry and sophomores. Just wait until next year.

THE EASY LIFE!

Hard work pays

The Junior Class Officers, Doug James — President, Lara Goldt — Vice President, Karen Barger — Secretary, and Jennifer St. Cin — Treasurer, all had important jobs to do for their class this year.

Doug James worked with the other officers to, as he put it, "make our class the greatest the school's known!" Lara Goldt likes her job, but wished that people would have given more of their time to help. Karen Barger's job was difficult as well. Jennifer St. Cin was in charge of keeping track of all income and expenses. She was especially proud of having more money than any other class.

None of them are sure if they will run for office during their Senior year. Early morning meetings and all the work involved was a real drag. But the rewards made up for those long hours.

Michele DiPasquale: On her way up!

If you were to ask a member of the Junior class who deserves credit for all that she has done, most likely he would say MICHELE DIPASQUALE!

Seventeen year old, Michele has been actively involved at San Ramon since the first time she steped on to campus. Being on the bottom of the totem pole sure didn't intimidate Michele. She was a freshmen cheerleader and the Vice President of her class. She also was a member of the Varsity tennis team as a freshman. Michele's freshmen year was definitely a busy one.

Moving on to her sophomore year was a big step and quite an exciting one. Michele was elected by her classmates to be the President of the Class of '87! She continued playing tennis, the sport she loved, and she was voted the cpatain of the varsity team. Michele is academically inclined and with her 3.43 grade point average was given a scholarship to attend The Hugh O'Brien Youth Leadership Conference. This was a great experience for her and helped her develop leadership skills that will last a lifetime.

This year, 5'3 & a half Michele put all of her past experience and new leadership skills to work. She was chosen by the administration to hold the cabinet position as the Co-Activities Director. With this, she organized the Freshmen Orientation, it's tour, dinner, and it's presentation. Homecoming week, the voting of the court, noon-time activities, and half time at the game were all partly Michele's responsibility. She also organized rooter buses to the football playoff game. Michele put all of her effort into everything she has done this year including her participation on the Varsity Tennis Team.

This incredibly ambitious young lady plans to be a foreign exchange student to Europe for a semester and then finish the year at San Ramon. From there she plans to study law someplace in the Eastern United States.

For everything that Michele has done for San Ramon and her friends . . . Credit is due!

Dance, And All That Jazz

Sixteen year old Tiffany Castillo has dreams of becoming a professional dancer. She started taking dance lessons at an early age of four. She took ballet lessons at the San Francisco Conservatory Ballet where she practiced three hours a day. At the age of ten, Tiffany began taking lessons at the Moscone Center.

At age 13, Tiffany began independent studies so she could dance full time. Her practice alone often lasted up to 5 and a half hours a day. This soon led to dance tours which took her to performances all over the Bay Area, Las Vegas, Lake Tahoe, Monterey, and Santa Cruz. She went back to school for eighth grade, but missed two months to go on tour again, only this time she had more lead parts.

As a sophommore she began taking dance classes in Alamo. There she performed in The Graduation Ball which took place in San Francisco. She also performed in the musical "The Boyfriend" and showed her acting ability in two San Ramon Drama Nights. She was also a member of Thespians.

Now as a junior, Tiffany takes a dance class at school, is in the drama club, and is a Thespian. She takes lessons at the San Francisco Dance School for 4 and a half hours on Saturdays. She was in the musical Grease: New Generation at the Performing Arts in Walnut Creek. With all of this dancing and performing Tiffany somehow manages to maintain a high GPA.

As a Senior she will take a ROP class in cosmotology. This will give Tiffany a job so she will be able to go out for auditions, hoping one day to make it to broadway.

Well, advanced art is over. We've pulled through a few interesting projects. I think we both should continue as art majors. Don't you think?? I guess what made the class not so...uh...hum....well..you know was our interesting talks before D.A. and Senior Ball. Hum I wonit what they could have been about?? Well, I hope the best for you next year and the years after. Take care.

Love,
Mary

Missy - well we've had our ups and downs but I think we've ended up on the ups. I remember we used to totally rag on Lynda her orange pants & green shoes. Senior ball was rad maybe not at the beach for me but everything else was a blast. I remember how nervous we were at your house. Oh well its all over for you and I have 2 more years of it. Good Luck in dancing - I really think your future in dancing is going to be there. well now to Dave - Lets just forget about him because it always causes fights between us - whatever Dave wants to do is fine with me but lets not have that come between us - Oh well I'm not even gonna worry about it. Good Luck in the future.

Dedication leads to success

The class of 1986 "charged" into a successful and exciting year under the leadership of Senior President JOHN LAURENT; Vice-President, LAURA WEBB; Treasurer AMY BLUNDEN; and Secretary, LISA ALTHAUS. These four dedicated officers worked together as a team to make that senior year their best year, as this was the intention of every class member.

The officers all liked working with the class as a group. They enjoyed the variety of people and the involvement. It was great to have a class that wanted to help reach the top! Determination was appreciated.

Of course, there were times when frustration set in. The main thing they did not enjoy was when people made commitments to things and didn't follow through. This caused the officers to hold all responsibility and finish the project, often when they didn't have the time or energy to do so.

But, as a whole, the senior class was very involved! Together they organized a successful Homecoming Dance and float, many profitable fundraisers, and a very memorable Senior Ball.

Each officer deserves credit and congratulations.

Senioritis — Have you got it?

1) Do you find yourself arriving to class 15 min. late? 2) Are you extremely tired on Mondays? 3) Does your curfew really matter? 4) Can you forge at least one of your parents names? 5) Do you ever appear at the family dinner table? 6) Do the people at Burger King know your first name? 7) Can you remember what you did last weekend? Do others fill you in? 8) Does the Admin. know your name & phone #? 9) Have you served your "Senior Beautification Day" yet? 10) Does your teacher know your excuse before you do? 11) Have your parents even seen your report card? If you answered "yes" to . . . 8+ = Serious Senioritis 6-8 = a mild case, 5 or below = Frosh Oriented!! Senioritis = Disease affecting those in the 12th grade who cannot and/or will not function on a day to day basis. Symptoms = Tardiness, forgetfulness, and laziness. Leaves one feeling extremely lazy when associated with work or school and extremely hyper-active when associated with fun or weekends. Cure = Graduation and a two week trip to HAWAII!!!!!

On Being a Senior

Well, here we are! Seniors! It seems almost impossible. Heather McPhearson says "It feels good. I have more time to do what I want." We came here as scared little freshmen. Cindy Lucero says "Everyone seemed to be so old when we were freshmen. Now we're the 'old' ones!" Chris Covarrubious comments: "We can get totally squirrely on the freshmen and not feel bad cuz' we got it too!" Without a chance to catch our breath we sped through our freshman, sophomore, and junior years. Suddenly we were seniors! The question is: Is being a Senior what we expected?

Seniordom has its downfalls too. "I'm still looking forward to getting out. It's not like the work just stops." Says Jeff Oclon while Joel Watkins agrees that he also just wants to get out of "the trap of Danville." But mostly we are enjoying ourselves. Melissa Maley states "You feel like your childhood's behind you and your whole life is in front of you. That's exciting, but it's also scary and threatening." Barry Tonge exclaims "There's so much excitement in the air, someone has to take advantage of it! Why not me?" Well, friends, here we are! Enjoy!

Phantom Cows and Other Stories

"Well, it was just your average sort of day. Me and Jill Crowther we were driving along Sycaamore Valley Road" sniffles Senior Meghan Stewart, "When suddenly I looked up and there was a cow in the middle of the road!! I screamed and swerved. Then I did a U-turn and the cow was gone!"

This is just one of the unusual things that occur while we're driving. Monica Fabian was driving along with a bunch of friends when her car hit the curb wrong and flew into the air. It landed on a slab of cement near-by. Three men came and lifted "Nellie" off the slabs onto the road and left. Kathy Nowacek recalls when she did a 360' turn and ended facing commuting cars on a freeway. Amazingly, no one was hurt or damage done.

As teenagers, cars are very important. Mostly, they are "daddy's car, but they're not being driven the way daddy would. Screeching tires and blaring radios while kids cruise down the street cat-calling and finding out "Where's the parties?" are common sights and sounds.

Guys are obsessed with them, girls impressed with them. But the weirdest things happen in them!

Cruzin' in style

When it comes to Senior guys, credit is always due especially to those who put a little extra hard work into their "Cruzin' Vessels."

Those who like their cars, "low for show" sure stand out when they're cruising down Main Street. Tim Elberts red "Hot V. 25" is dumped to the ground with custom interior and Porschee Alloy rims. One sure couldn't miss Mike McCumiskys' white Toyota Celica, it is the lowest and nicest one around.

The flip side of these cars are the totally high trucks that Senior guys drive around and literally look down on others. Joey Stamates has one high '82 Toyota truck which has absolutely no problem going over speed bumps or anything to that effect. Joey's truck is white with large tires, smiling faces over his high beam lights and a stereo that cranks. Matt Zumbro is into the stylin' high trucks too. He has a '78 Chevy step side that is a "one of a kind." It has a beautiful black and red paint job, not quite our school colors, but the quality of the paint job makes up for it. Keep four wheelin' guys!

Datsuns are a thing of this generation too! John Laurent's Porsche red Datsun 1600 is a convertible with gold Enkie rims. It is the best thing to cruise around in on a hot summer day. Doug Stevens sure has a car that turns heads. It is a Datsun 510, which is lowered with a bright orange paint job.

Whether high or low, red, white, black or blue, a Toyota, Volkswagon, Datsun or Chevy, cars are a thing of importance to the Senior guys! And for that, credit is due!

Graduation

Friday, June 13 is a day anticipated by 429 men and women. It is a day of looking forward as well as back. A time of intense happiness as well as some sadness. It's Graduation day.

"Ecstatic," this word muttered by DIANNA HARMS goes along with what most seniors think about graduation. Almost all are happy to get out of high school, yet it's a time of new beginnings. ANITA SPINETTA stated that it will be, "A big change in my life," while ALLISON SCHLESINGER says that she, "Can't wait to be on my own." Some though, feel sad because, "We're all such good friends," as TRISHA JOHNSON said. KATIE DUENSING has, "A nervous feeling," about graduation while WILL GRAY only exclaims, "Help!"

This is why Graduation is a time of happiness and sadness. The feelings and thoughts can't be summed up in one word. Regardless of how one feels, Congratulations to the Class of '86!

CLASS

OF '86

CRUSHES OR CRUSHED?

Throughout high school, we all have those secret and special crushes on one of the opposite sex. These exciting infatuations usually start in the freshmen year. For Tom Doslak, it all started when he arrived on campus, his first day of high school. His eyes fell upon the senior, varsity cheerleader, Auben Stoddard. His heart pounded the whole year, every time she would walk past him. Jim Schmidt would gaze at Katie Ditzel at all the rec dances, knowing that she would never know of Jim's love. Steve Martin has been impressed with Nicole Lafayette for four years, just as Tami Carrol has been checkin' out Eric MacAfee every year at SR. Jana Johnson has been one of Brian Jewetts favorites during his high school career.

Although there have been those long lasting relationships, the monthly and perhaps yearly crushes are more common here at SR. Will Gray secretly liked Tracy Palmer, while nobody ever knew the infatuation that Tony Barry had with Lisa Althaus. Barry Tonge would have loved to go out with Cassi Synder. Why didn't Cassi ever know? Julie Steele couldn't decide which crush was bigger, Jeff Elders or Tom Doslak; they were both heart throbs! Mike Isola would have loved to tackle Jeanne Thompson. Will Martin satisfies Allison Sheryl. Man he turns her on. Jack Pentlarge was very interested in Lisa Heller. Did Lisa Althaus know that Scott Glass and Jim Wilson had terrible crushes on her? Are the two friends, Holly Vasquez and Steve Martin really just friends? Did Steve know that Holly once had the hots for him? Laura Dann turned on Greg Born. Ann Olson still hadn't forgotten the one and only Dan Hramatco, and what about Barry Tonge? Jana Johnson had a crush on Zane Stoddard, or was it Will Gray? Mike Donagan wanted Lynda Dahl so badly! Basketball star Carolyn Raventos had a crush on Kirk Branstedar for a whole year. Bengy Guptil always had his eyes on Lynn Smith. What about the two student council members Nicole Selinger and Brian Jewett? Through all those meetings, she could barely control herself. Lynn Stanton finally revealed who her secret love was, yes, Tim Palmer. Jeff Elders heart pounded every time Patty Hills floated by. Would Lynette Fitt ever see eye to eye with John Lundblad? What about Sue Johnson? Did Dave Albertson ever know her secret? Caroline Vosloh lusted after Dave Heathorne. Collin Smith was Joanna Baldwin's dream. Melissa Maley's knight in shining armor was Andrew Shattuck. Marcie Carson is wild over Spiffy. The feelings Michelle Varney explained about Andy CeCe was, "definite lust." Monica Moore would have loved to score with Matt Zumbro. Yes, those crushes were fun, exciting, and sometimes painful for the class of 1986.

CHORUS

Are you one of those people who claim that you can't sing? Well, you're wrong. Anyone can sing if he tries! San Ramon has three different choirs. Mixed Choir is a choral group for everyone. No experience is necessary. Concert Choir is a group of sixty-five singers, and from that group are twenty advanced singers who from the Chamber Singers perform all year at various events, such as the Pops Concert and Choral competitions all over the Bay Area.

Music is an enjoyable way to express oneself. Choir members show an interest in singing and in learning more about music. Many choir members say that choir is a great way to meet new people and form long lasting friendships.

KEN ABRAMS has been directing the choir for two years. He adds his special touch of pizazz to each and every performance.

All of the singers make beautiful music together, and it shows! Their tour to Southern California and their many concerts and festivals demonstrate to all that Choir definitely deserves a tremendous amount of credit, for making beautiful music.

DRILL TEAM

Under the direction of Cheryl Yee, the 1985-86 Drill Team was led through a year of success by Maureen Temple. The Drill Team consisted of three squads — the tall flags, the short flags, and the lettergirls — with a total of twenty four members. The three squads worked together with the Marching Band to bring glory to the green and gold at football and basketball games, rallies, and parades.

The year began for the girls when they attended the U.S.A. Spirit Camp at Fresno State University. The girls returned home with many awards. The short flags brought home a Superior Penant, a Spirit Stick, and the Unity Award. The tall flags returned with the Hardest Working Plaque and a Third Place Award for their Showtime U.S.A. routine. Finally the lettergirls captured a Superior Trophy, an Outstanding Penant, and a Spirit Stick, with their captain, Jessee Archimede becoming one of the top four finalists in the camp and Ann Mendell winning a first place medallion for drill.

This was only the beginning for the three squads. The girls competed along with the Marching Band in many competitions and parades, capturing a Third Place Trophy in the Walnut Festival. The team was also honored by having the short flag squad selected to perform at the NCS Playoffs on December 7 at the Oakland Collesium.

The year climazed with an exciting tour to Southern California. All three squads have had a fun-filled and profitable year on Drill Team. Their success has kept the Wolf Pride flowing and their spirit helps S.R. to live on as "The Home of Champions"

Marching Band

Whistles screeching; feet stomping, trumpets blaring and drums pounding — these are the sounds that a Sam Ramon marching Band member hears almost everyday while practicing. Hard work and dedication has marched these students to the top. The band began practicing in the hot August sun and soon found themselves in a competition in Walnut Creek. Later, the band again lifted their feet to the sounds of competition — this time in Concord and later in Santa Cruz where the percussion line came in fifth place out of forty. The bands final competition took place in Lodi where they received much deserved credit, a trophy for overall excellence.

The expenses for the Marching Band have reached up to $20,000 a year (time for San Ramon to use that good ol-credit-card) The band however, sponsored a car Wash-a-thon during September, which earned them over $5,400. At that time the band also sold candy totalling $2,400. The remainder of the money was donated, usually after the band gave a special performance. On October 12, the band played at Round Hill Country Club for San Ramon's 1945 class reunion. The band received many donations and over twenty thank you cards — a greatly deserved prize.

In addition to their many activities band attended every home football game and many away games. They added spirit and fun tunes to the crowded stands. Thanks Guys!

The 1985-1986 San Ramon Marching Band played under drum major STEVE OLIVER and music director CHERYL YEE. Together they, and the sixty other members, marched their way to being the best San Ramon has ever had — now "That's Increditable!"

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC

In case you haven't heard, we have three terrific bands here at San Ramon High; The Concert/Jazz Band, The Symphonic Band, and the Jazz Ensemble.

The Concert/Jazz Band prepares young music students for the Symphonic Band and the Jazz Ensemble. This class teaches it's students to better understand their music and their instrument.

The Symphonic Band involves many talented musicians. This music department is very excited about this class because it now meets U.C. advanced course requirements. The Band often performs at local schools and at various festivals.

Last, but certainly not least, we have the Jazz Ensemble. San Ramon's Jazz Ensemble performs more often than the other two bands because they are often hired to play professionally. This year they have played at such places as The Crow Canyon Country Club, and the San Ramon Mayor's Convention.

If you've never heard an S.R. Band you need to give a listen. We at San Ramon are lucky to have such talented musicians representing our school. It takes years of hard work to play any musical instrument. The musicians at San Ramon spend much of their time outside of school perfecting their talent and Miss Yee, the director of all three bands devotes most of her time to Band Activities. We San Ramon students need to take notice of our Instrumental Music Department. It is time we gave them the credit they deserve.

CHEATING . . .

"If you ain't cheating, you ain't trying," Jim Schmidt says. Though many people may not agree with him, it is a given fact that cheating is practiced by many at S.R.. Most of those interviewed felt that those who cheat do so for lack of studying, in order to secure a good grade. Michelle McEvoy commented, "Many people cheat for insurance." Lynn Kaufman admitted, "I just do it to get the "A"." Mr. Castleman told us Mr. Zumbro's idea that "Today's grading system, with students under the pressure to succeed, is the cause behind most cheating cases."

Though the 'whys' may vary, the methods of cheating are usually consistent. We've all taken a test and seen someone straining to see someone else's paper. Tom Doslak prefers this method, saying, "I'm good with the eyes." Cheat sheets are also popular and occupy strange places, such as shoes, desks, between fingers, under thighs or mini skirts, on the back of the chair in front of you, in calculator holders, and even around the lights in the science department. Some other successful tricks are writing on the edge of a pencil, having a friend near you hold his paper at the correct angle, and even singing the answers onto a tape with music and casually listening to your Walkman.

When talking about those teachers who are easier to cheat on, many mentioned the same names. But Mr. Leach said the kids . . . "make it look really obvious. They look guilty even before they start." Many students take advantage of a teacher's carelessness. Jim Schmidt remembers a geography test during which the teacher left the map of the world on the wall.

Though some students adamantly claim they have never cheated, and the administration along with the faculty have taken steps to curb the practice, one student, when asked how long he thought cheating would remain a part of the high school scene, simply commented, "Forever."

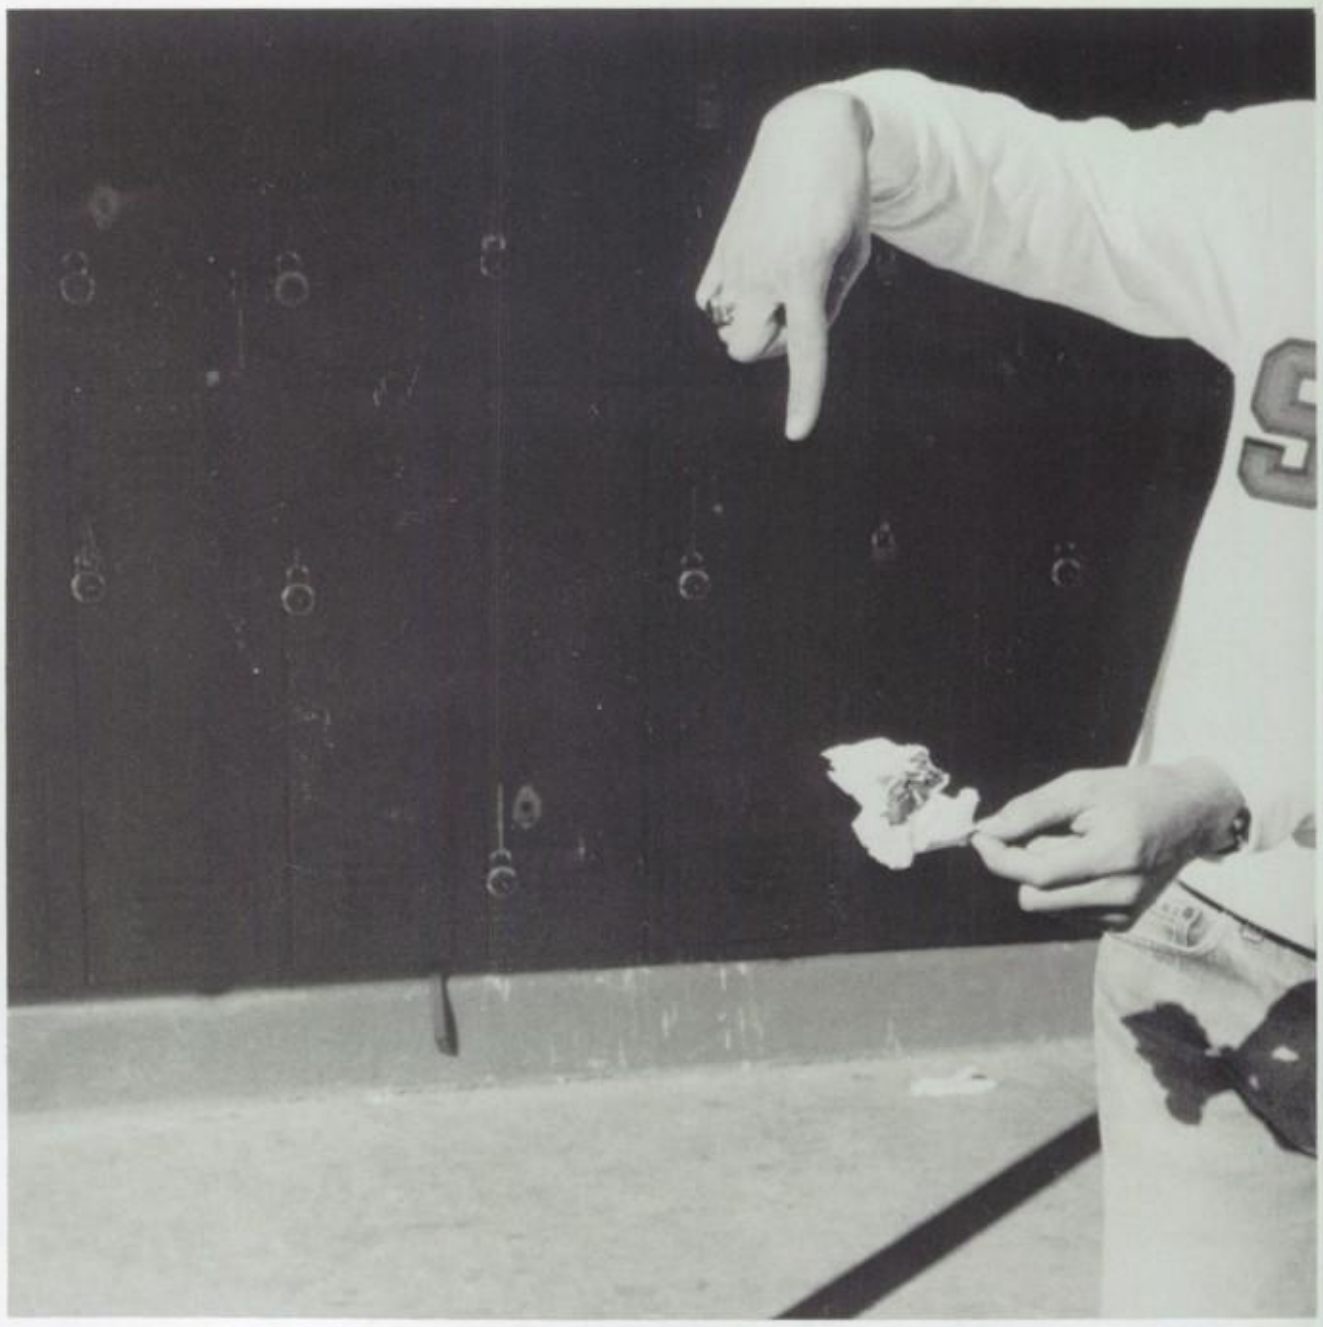
BUMMER... AN ESSAY QUESTION

Brian Fortune stands dumb-founded, deciding whether he should throw his garbage away.



LITTER . . .

San Ramon High, without a doubt is one of the best schools around. It has high quaility scholars, athletes and many talented individuals. Although we have mastered and excelled in many areas, there is one area in which the members of San Ramon High failed, Litter! It's everywhere! In the quad, in the wings, on the fields, in the bushes, and even in the classrooms. We just can't seem to find the garbage cans! Mr. Henderson had enough with the so-called 'irresponsible student body'. He set up assemblies and encouraged (or was it threatened) us to clean up the campus, or our ten minute brunch would be taken away for a week.

Some people didn't care if we got our brunches taken away, but then there were those who were angry. Mark Lansberger said, "I don't think it's fair that I have my ten minute brunch taken away because of some other slob." Brunch is a time for the teachers to recooperate before fourth period starts and students always like the extra time with their friends. We all had mixed feelings and attitudes about the schoolwide problem. Ann Olson giggled as she said, "We have become accustomed to it (litter)." Janice Anthony along with many others thought the administration was making a big deal about the whole thing. Contrary, Carolyn Carty complained, "It shows that we have no pride in our school." Dan Holland jokingly stated, "I think we should collect and recycle it for the senior class treasury." Yes, there were probably many solutions to the litter problem at San Ramon High School, but the most logical would be to have each person put his own trash where it belonged . . . in the garbage cans.

Litter! San Ramon's biggest problem. Julie Pavowski and Susan Tallarico show their school pride as they clean up the campus.

Allison Sheryl and Tami Carrol 'pitch it in' on their way to class. (above)

Christi Covarrubias, Lynn Smith and Jana Johnson have some fun while they 'spruce' up the quad.

Dez-z-z-z- Doez-z-z-z Detention! (bottom)

DETENTIONS . . .

The census is simple — there's nothing as boring as spending three hours trapped inside a San Ramon classroom on a Saturday. The room is stufffy and the sun is inviting you to go out with your friends, but you can't. You play your walkman, ease back in the chair and count the clicks of the second hand as it continues its endless path. There's no turning back now, somewhere you made a mistake and this is your punishment.,. DETENTION! The mere sound of the word makes one cringe with horror. Saturday school perhaps? Does that not make it seem even worse? Saturday. Your one free day from school, and where are you? At school! So tell me how did you get there?

CHRISTIE COVARUBIAS: "Because I failed to show up to my after school detention. I spent my Saturday at school!"
BRIAN DUFFEL: "I told a teacher that he was full of_____."
BARRY TONGE: "Good time! Senior prank Babe!"
DAVID HAYES: "The best. Primo. Dude, killer. Like fer shur — the Senior prank!"
CRAIG RAGGIO: "I told a teacher to.. uh . . . do something."
DAVE SOMMERHAUG: "I missed an after school detention and ended up with a boring Saturday school — it put me in a bad mood the rest of the day!"
PHIL COLLINE: I talked."

Yet no matter how one ends up with a detention it is one of the most complained about weekend occurrences. It's boring, scary, but most of all as ALANA CROSS said, "It's a pain in the neck. " But as JOHN SCHLESINGER said, "It can be fun depending on the teacher." So maybe detention isn't as terrible as we all tend to make it sound. It's a guaranteed way to do homework, catch up on note writing, or take a long awaited nap. Whatever you choose to do during the seemingly endless hours is up to you. But next time you litter, cheat, or arrive late to class maybe you'll think about watching that clock revolve around and around and . . . . .

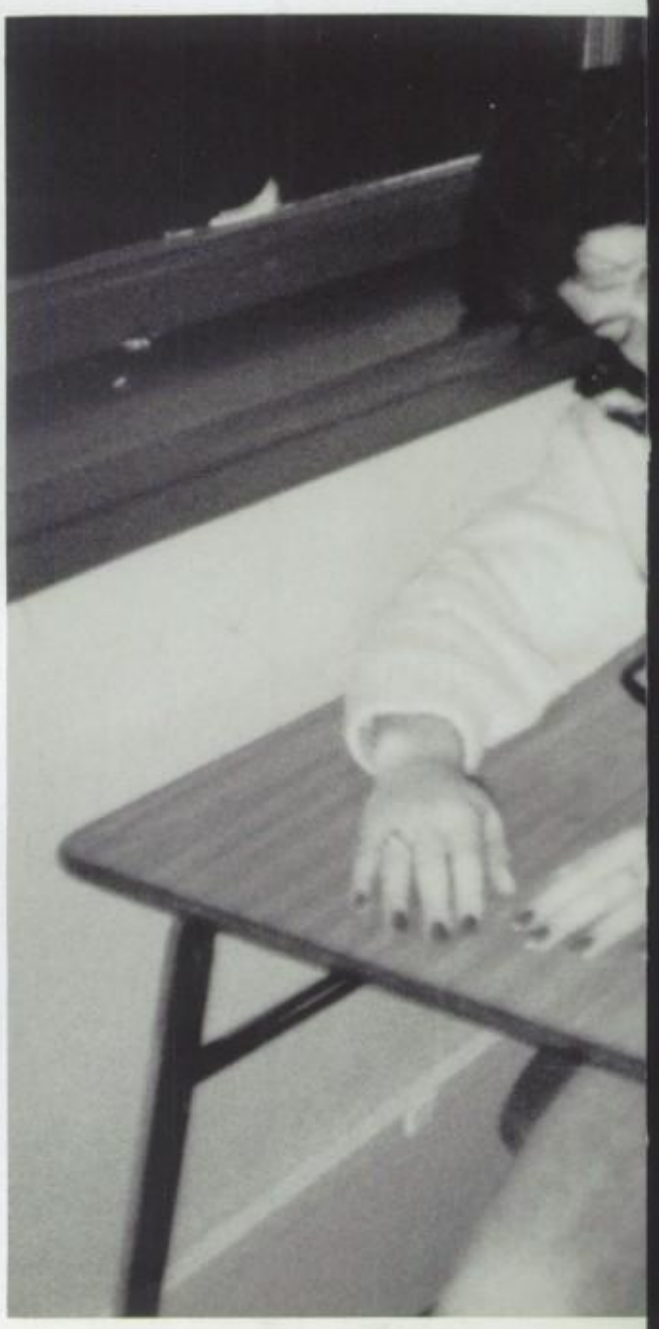
DETENTION STATISTICS

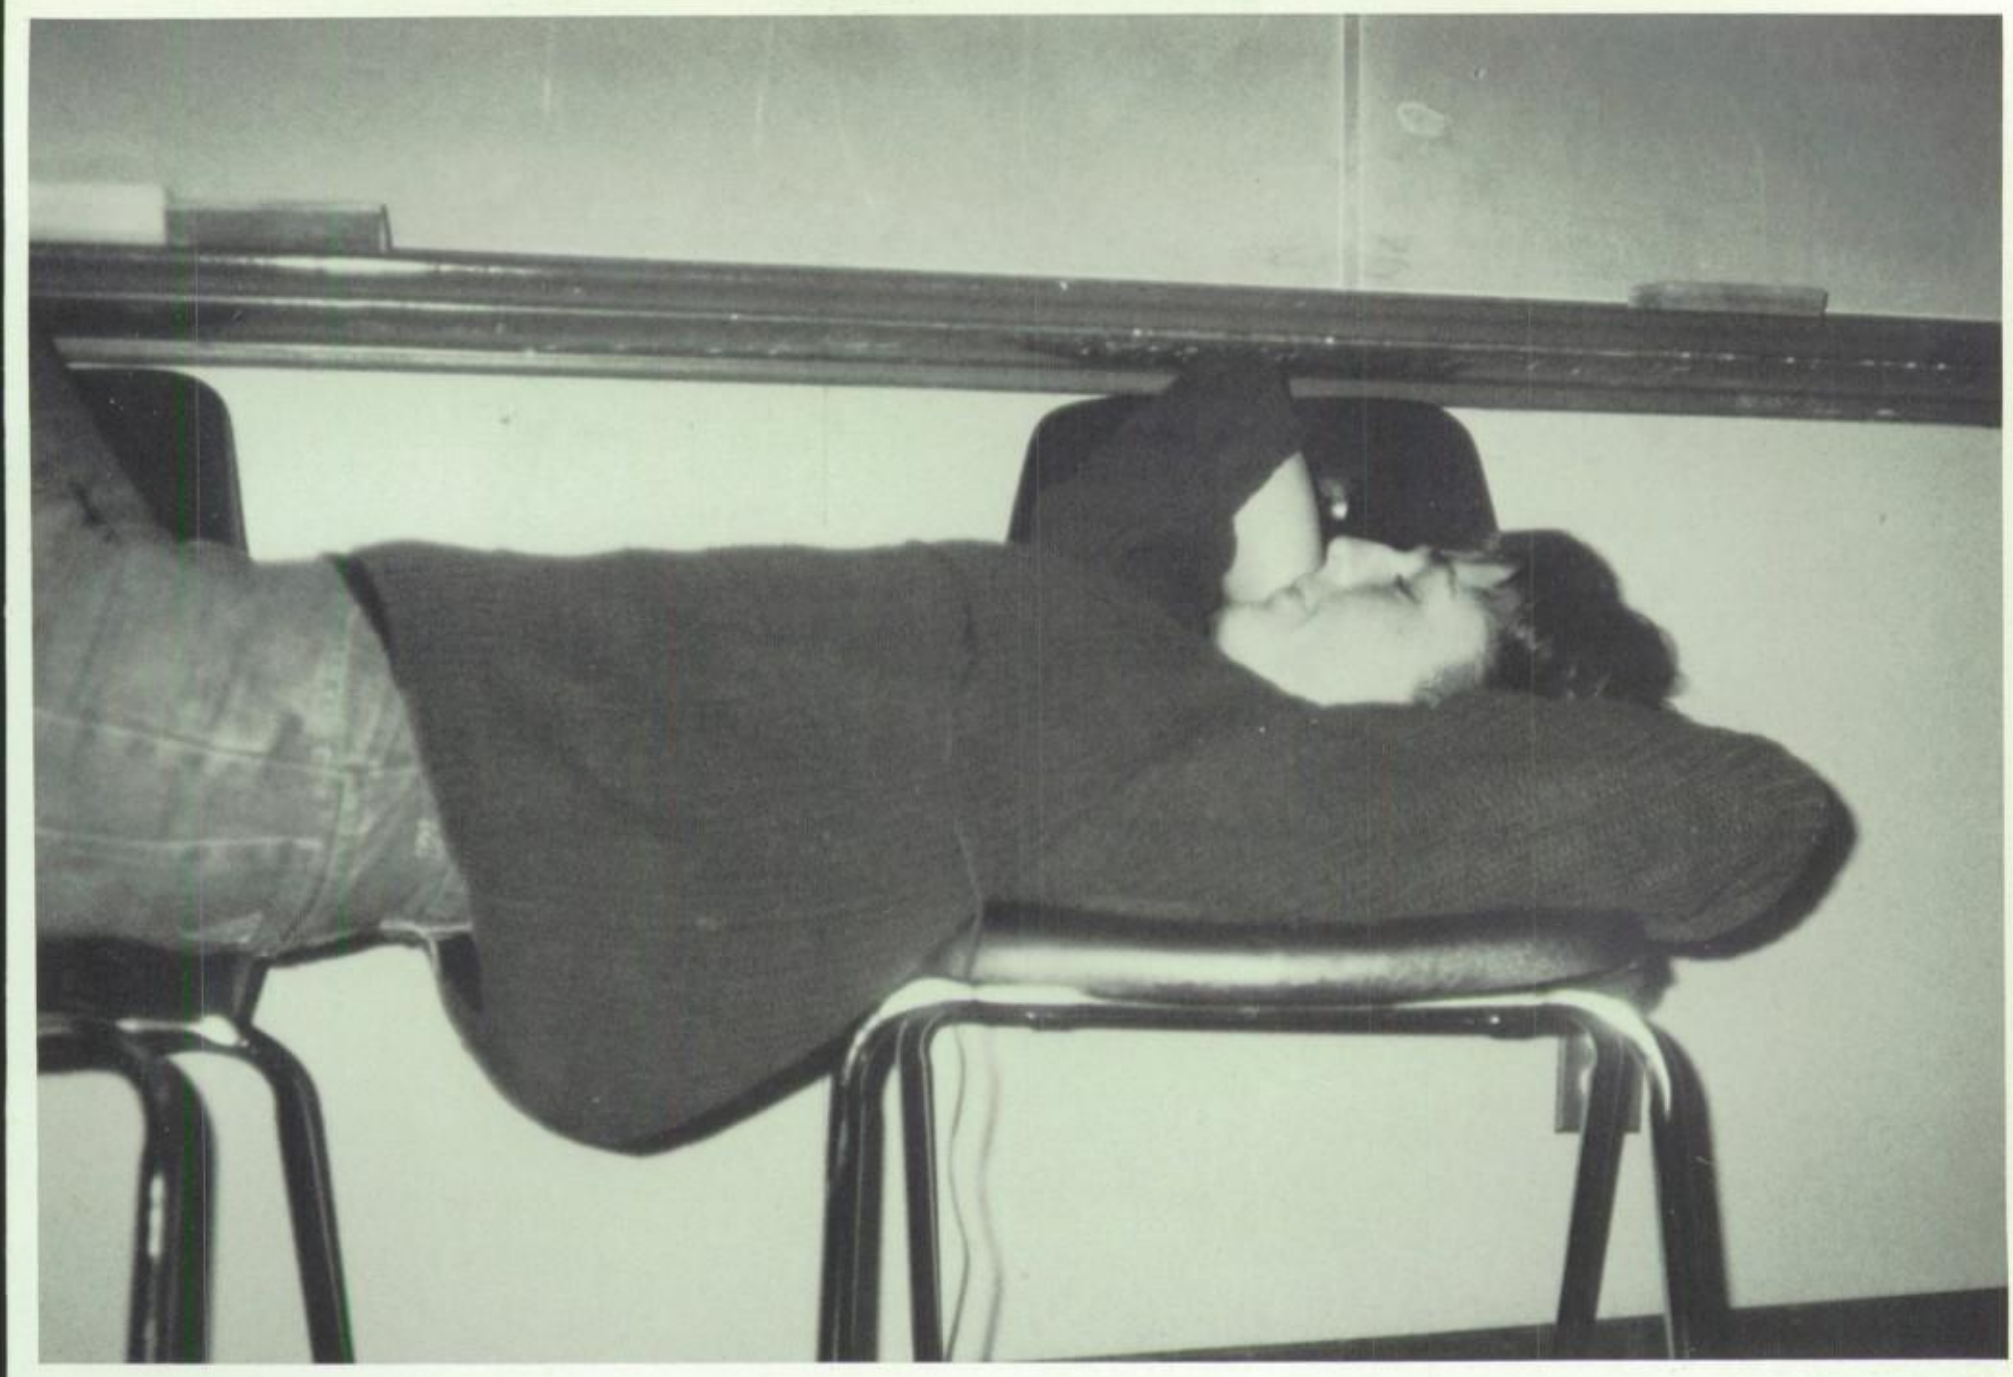
An average of 110 students a week receive a detention.
90 out of the 110 actually attend.

An average of 40 students every two weeks receive a Saturday School.
35 out of the 40 actually attend.

Tardies rank highest for getting students on detention.
Class behavior ranks second.

10 out of 10 students feel detention was actually punishment.
1 out of the 10 had fun at detention or Saturday School.





TEN WAYS TO GET A DETENTION

1. TARDIES

Of course there's the most popular way to get a detention. Be tardy to class three times and get a detention.

2. TALKING BACK TO A TEACHER

Most of us at one time or another have gotten into an argument with a teacher and found that if we are brilliant enough to talk back to a teacher, we will get a study hall.

3. CHEATING ON A TEST

Writing the answers on your hand, up your arm, on the desk, on a "cheat sheet", or on your shoe? The techers have seen them all and some even check. What will happen if you are caught? Usually an "F" and detention or Saturday school.

4. FORGE A NOTE TO EXCUSE AN ABSENCE

Many students find that its better to tell their parents when they cut and get them to write a note instead of getting caught by the attendance office.

5. LITTERING THE CAMPUS

The entire school has suffered through this one. Students have been singled out and given detentions because they couldn't get that candy wrapper or sandwich bag in the garbage can.

6. BURNING IN THE BACK PARKING LOT

The guys in the back parking lot not only got a Saturday school for doing "urts", but had the parking lot closed off for a day without warning.

7. PASSING NOTES IN CLASS

How many times have you been passing notes in class and the teacher catches you? Most teachers ask you to put the note away or give you a detention. Sometimes the teacher will read it out loud to the class. Which is worse getting a detention or having your note read to your class?

8. WRITING ON A DESK

For some reason on test days the writing on the desks seems to increase. Maybe you read about the secrets of Mary's love life? Better remove that writing or you might find yourself in detention.

9. THROWING ACORNS AT FRESHMEN

Those awesome Varsity Football players who hang out in front of the main hall threw acorns at the freshmen to earn their detention.

10. MAKING PIG NOISES IN CLASS

Some students found that the easiest way to annoy a teacher was to make noises in class. Unfortunately this disturbance leads to a detention.

TEACHER TRIVIA . . .

I bet you think that teachers have no outside activities besides grading homework. Believe it or not we have some pretty interesting teachers at this school. After all teachers are people too! For example, did you know that one of our teachers grows dynamite garlic and has also visited the LOVE CENTER?!? Here are some more strange things in TEACHER TRIVIA!

1) Which teacher occasionally sleeps fully clothed? D. WEIGARDT

2) Who grows beards as a hobby? C. HERNDON

3) Which administrator was born and raised in the Big Apple? N. SMITH

4) Who is proud of being polish and has visited Poland in 82 and 84? G. GERAGHTY

5) Which teacher is a chocolate addict and wants to be a tap dancer? P. MORTENSEN

6) Which teacher has lived in many different countries? S. ESTRADA

7) Who is in love with horticulture and knows where Shangri-la is? E. BENNETT

8) Which teacher dumped a bucket of ice water on Joe Rose of the Miami Dolphins when they were in college together? ZAHN

9) Which teacher plays the cello? LINDL

10) Who ran in the Boston Marathon in 82 and 83? Fastest time 10k, 39; 13. C. MACPHAIL

11) Which teacher plays the drums, paints and loves to travel? K. CASTLEMAN

12) What administrator coaches youth soccer? J. HENDERSON

13) Who was once a teacher in San Quentin? R. AULT

14) Who grew up in Thailand, Japan, Taiwan and the Philippines? K. PERKINS

15) Who is heavily addicted to spearmint life savers? J. DAVIS

16) Who is a magician? L. HARRICH

17) Which teacher has no cartilage in his nose? J. NELSON

18) Which teacher underwater snorkels? N. BARTON

19) Who secretly wishes she was driving a Porshe? L. COHEN

20) Who was once a Walnut Creek police officer? M. MCGINNIS

21) Who is a citizen of New Zealand? T. BROWN

22) Which teacher's husband is a coach at Cal High? K. DONOVAN

DON'T PUSH YOUR LUCK

Why do people push their luck too far? Sometimes people wait until they've come close to killing someone or killing themselves, before they stop. Why do people drink and drive?

Some students here at San Ramon have decided enough is enough! We have formed the group, Students Against Driving Drunk, better known as SADD. Our goal is to stop kids from driving drunk. SADD has a special program set up that will help get the drunk kids home. They can call a student driver, who will be in a special meeting place, and he or she will come to pick them up from a party. Members of SADD are hoping this will cut back on the driving drunk problem.

Until people become aware of this drinking problem, nothing can be done. Beer drinking, and parties are a popular scene for the teens. Parents just want to ignore the fact that their "precious children" do drink. The thing SADD is trying to point out is that their children do drink.

The members of SADD always have copies of the "Contract of Life" on hand. This is an agreement that both the child and the parent must sign. It says that neither one of them will drive drunk. If one of them gets drunk and is driving he will call for a ride.

SADD hopes to open some eyes around our community, and stop any possible accidents that could occur. Remember, please, DON'T DRIVE DRUNK!!!

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

The AFS (American Field Studies) program here at San Ramon provides students with the opportunities to learn the cultures of other countries by the exchange program. Here are some of the comments of the foreign exchange students who were with us at S.R. this year.

SIGGI BALDVINSSON. We don't have as many ice cream parlors in Iceland, we only have one Dairy Queen place. Americans also eat a lot of junk food. We only have one Kentucky Fried Chicken place In Iceland. We usually eat very healthy food like the head and intestines from sheep and dried fish.

Oh by the way my name is SIGGI, Ess, I, Gee, Gee, I, not Ziggy, nor Zigi or Sigi or Sigmund. I don't have a last name but my fathers name is Baldvin and that automatically becomes the last statement in my name — Baldvinsson.

The climate back in Iceland is a little colder than here. It gets 70 degrees Fahrenheit in the summer and the coldest it gets in winter is 30 degrees fahrenheit. It is easier to go skiing. (Only half an hours drive from town) So I ski a lot, but there are no beaches and we don't waterski a lot. Summer nights are all light, but winter nights are long and pitch dark, so we always try to make our Christmas very bright.

I have loved America ever since I first put my foot on the floors of Kennedy airport terminal. Everybody seems to want to be my friend. I like how schools promote sports (because otherwise I would get fat from all the wonderful junk food.) I try my best to get a little involved.

My family has been wonderful and the only thing I object to is my bed (it needs to grow and get fat) and the loud hard rock that my host brothers play. Otherwise they have made my stay here one of the best experiences of my life. Host mom and dad are very kind and my host brothers have made me feel really at home. My host sister is a cute little thing too!

I'm Pier-Michael Caminada and I am living here with the Foell family as a foreign exchange student. Before I came here, I lived in Germany. In Germany you can choose only one or two classes in school til eleventh grade, the other classes you will get automatically in your schedule. The schools are normally in one building in Germany. I think school here is easier than in Germany. You have to do a lot of work here, but most of this work is easy. In Germany girls normally don't shave their legs and here they use more make-up (which I find ugly if girl's faces are painted too much.) In Germany to get a driver's license you normally have to be 18 or older and you have to pay a lot because you learn driving in private schools. Here I realize a lot of people who are sixteen, have a car. If you want to do a sport in Germany, you have to go to a private clubs, most sports are done with the school. In Germany we don't have any school sport teams. Also the schools here offer more clubs and extracurricular activities. I like it here and I'm glad I have had the opportunity of going to San Ramon High.

My name is Hetty Hellmers and I'm an exchange student from Sweden. I live here in Danville with the Hardman family. I'm eighteen years old and before I came to America, I graduated in my school in Sweden. I live in a city called Norrkoping which is two hours south of Stockholm. I'm a senior here at San Ramon and I'm also going to graduate here in June.

School is very different here. Swedish schools don't have all the activities that American Schools have. Everything circles around the school here. In Sweden, if you play for example: basketball, soccer, or swimming you are a member of a club and the school has nothing to do with it. So the club has people from many different schools.

Sweden has much more public transportation than the U.S. If you want to go somewhere, you can always get there, but here you are so dependent on your car and license. We don't get our drivers license until we are eighteen years of age.

Rudi Kollslid

Hi. My name is Rudi Kollslid and I'm from the Faroe Islands. They are located approximately between Scotland, Norway, and Iceland. We are a part Denmark, but we have our own language (Faroese), culture, and government. The Faroe Islands have a population of 45,000 people.

It's a little colder there than here but that's all right because we have nice warm clothes. In the winter we get this wonderful white stuff called snow. The snow gives you an inspiration to do all kinds of things such as throwing snowballs. But personally, I prefer ice-skating.

School is probably the biggest difference between the U.S. and the Faroe Islands. We are in the same class with the same people the whole year. We have about fifteen different subjects so the schedule changes every day. The teachers change classrooms instead of the students. High School is three years and it's not mandatory. The first year of high school we chooose between a math or a language line. On the math line you mostly study physics, chemistry, and biology. On the language line we mostly study Faroese, Danish, English, German, French, and Latin. Our Attendance policy is also different, it's very simple; if you don't go to school you will flunk.

Ever since I came to Califonia I have had fun almost all the time. I live with Lisa Smith who is a sophomore here at S.R. I think people here are very open and it's easy to make friends. I have never in my life seen so much ice-cream or eaten so much pizza. This is definitely not the right place to be when you are on a diet. I'm really glad I came here and hope that everyone remembers me for a long time, because I know that I will never forget this year.

1985 FOOTBALL TEAM BLASTS E.B.A.L. FOES

A warning was given by San Ramon in 1985 to the other teams in the area. Dominating S.R. football is back and here to stay. A well-balanced, point devouring offense, led by QB Jeff Meese, RB Tom Doslak, and WR Dean Gallagher, combined with a brutal, stingy defense with standouts like DE Mike Donnegan, LB Will Gray, DT Jeff Oclon, and DB Steve Martin, proved too much for many of the wolves' opponents.

To start off the year, S.R. hosted the Jefferson Indians. With the offense struggling, the defense starred during the contest. The vaunted running attack of the Indians found itself up against a brick wall formed by the likes of Steve Jones, Mike Isola, and Steve Grabowsky. Shawn Gundelach also had 3 interceptions as S.R. walked away with a 14-7 win.

The wolves hosted Ygnacio Valley the following week in what would prove to be an exciting game. To answer Ygacio's opening touchdown, Tom Doslak returned the ball to the Ygnacio 7 yard line. Mike Hansen then punched the ball in to tie the score. Both Hansen and the wolf defensive backfield of Steve Martin, Shawn Gundelach, Tom Doslak, and Dean Gallagher had spectacular nights and the Wolves prevailed 17-16.

To end the pre-season, the Wolves were stunned in an upset by Northgate 3-0 in a hard-fought defensive battle. Cal High was held back in the next game 17-14. Steve Redwine helped to move the wolves down the field in the final seconds and John Nystrom kicked the winning Field goal with no time left.

The offense finally meshed against Livermore. The Cowboys found themselves the victim of endless scoring by S.R. Dean Gallagher had many key catches for the Wolves and the running game seemed unstoppable as S.R. won 35-21.

The following week against Dublin, 21 players were benched for disciplinary reasons, but the remaining 19 rose the the occasion. Zane Stoddard, Mark Pearce, and Steve Hempler, ran for hard earned yards and Mike Kopp wreaked havoc in the Gael backfield, getting two sacks to help S.R. to a 21-8 win.

Foothill's well-publicized passing attack found itself shot out of the air next week. Steve Martin harried Falcon receivers repeatedly, Mike Donnegan applied constant pressure to the passer, and will Gray jammed any running attempts while S.R. won 16-14.

For Homecoming, S.R. met undefeted Granada. Criticism by the papers leading up to the game, incited the offensive line, consisting of John Fefley, Will Gray, Mike Kopp, Jim Schmidt, and Paul Ellis, and brought about a truly dominating game. The wolf linemen crushed all who stood in their way while opening holes for the running game or giving precious time for Meese to pass, giving S.R. a 25-0 win.

Any let down was avoided the following week as S.R. flattened Amador 37-0.

Now it was time for M.V. and the league championship. After 5 years of ridicule, the wolves went straight for the heart. Jeff Meese and Dean Gallagher worked their magic while Mike Donnegan, Will Gray, and Dave Cudworth dealt out punishing blows on defense. Final score: 14-10 S.R.

In the playoffs, S.R. passed the a test against American only to fall 1 yard short of their dreams against Clayton Valley in overtime.

J.V. Football Comes Through For San Ramon!

Unlike the Varsity Football team, the Junior Varsity team didn't get long articles in the newspaper, or the huge crowds watching them play. But when you play with the heart these guys did, it doesn't matter. The J.V. team started off the year with a very different pre-season. They emerged winless from teams like Pinole, Ygnacio Valley, and North Gate, but fought back to get ready for league. Against their first league opponent, the young wolves put down the Grizzlies 13 to 0. Their hard work finally paid off.

In the next game with Livermore, the now hearty J.V.ers again emerged victorious 34 to 12. Then the J.V.s returned home to get yet another win over Dublin 19 to 12. Going to Foothill, undefeated in league play, the wolves had their bubble burst. They lost a hard fought game to the Falcons, 8 to 7. The next week the wolves faced the Mustangs. With hopes of a league Chamionship out, simple "Home of the Champions pride"was on the line.

It seemed that victory was just not meant to be, with M.V. winning 36 to 6. This was the end of the season for most players, but with the Varsity team entering playoffs, the call came down from the mountain (straight from coach Cal himself) for a few good men. They ended up being: Tim Marony, Pat Grassi, Jeff Thayer, Kenny Nelson, Greg Bruggeman, Scott Hutton, Sean Guthrie, Ron Plasaic, and freshmen Mike Caldwell. These players were given the chance to experience the post season play as well as what its like to gossip and hit with the Varsity. Some took this opportunity all to well. When players began to take practice a little too seriously, a Varsity player soon could set him straight rather quickly. No serious injuries were sustained. All in all, it was a season definitely worth remembering!! Their parents should be proud and S.R. gives them credit!

Frosh come out on top with 4-3 record and an M.V. win

The 1985 Freshmen Football Team started off their season with an impressive win against California High. Linebacker, Ric Tokoph, returned an intercepted pass for a touchdown. The score ended up 26-8, a wolf win. A week later, the freshmen Wolf cubs showed Livermore who was boss with a 27-8 win. During the next game against Foothill, Mike Caldwell intercepted a pass and ran it back 80 yards for a touchdown at the end of the first half. This was exciting and the game was close, although Foothill ended up with the win, 16-12. The next two games were disappointments also, as the Wolves were defeated by Granada, 14-0 and by the Dublin Gaels, 18-7. The frosh team got their act together and beat Amador, 13-6. These wolf cubs ended the season in style with a 14-8 victory over those Mustangs on the hill.

The Best Defensive Player award went to Burt Wright while the Best Offensive Player award went to Mike Caldwell. The Most Improved player was Brett Hurting. The coaches gave their award to Mike Joyce.

Varsity Water Polo Keeps Tradition of Excellence

San Ramon Varsity Water Polo team continued its traditional domination in the 1985-86 season led by All-league seniors Craig Dolley, Jack Pentlarge, Matt Gibson, Mike Spackman, and Junior All Leaguer Seth Abbott. San Ramon outscored its opponents by phenomenal margins.

San Ramon walked away with a league title again for the eleventh year in a row. Going into the North Coast Tourney, S.R. breezed by the competition until they met a powerful foe in the likes of Miramonte. Miramonte was one of only two teams to have beaten San Ramon at that time. The Wolves fought hard entering the fourth period with the score tied, but breakdowns allowed Miramonte to escape with a win 5 to 3. San Ramon's second place finish was its best in 10 years.

San Ramon did not reach its peak of excellence accidentally. Workouts began on June 1, with the whole team sweating away to be the best. With the help of Coach Myers they entered league play at the best of their ability.

Looking to the future, San Ramon may be hurt by graduation loosing all Nor Cal and Nor Coast players Dolley, Pentlarge and Gibson. But players such as Abbott, Spackman figure prominently into the Wolves future.

J.V. Water Polo had Killer Season Plus E.B.A.L. Champs.

The J.V. Waterpolo team had a super season. Their final E.B.A.L standing was 25 wins and 2 losses, which made them league champs for the eleventh straight year in a row. During their great season, they went down to Santa Cruz to participate in the Santa Cruz Frosh-Soph Tournament. During the championship game, the team lost in overtime. For the season, the team had a starting line-up that went like this: TOM COLUCCI or KEVIN WETTLAND — Goalies, JASON LONDEREE, BARRY HULCE, STEVE BRIGGS, STEVE SPACKMEN, KURT CHAMBLISS, and STU WADSWORTH.

During the season the team had some outstanding players. STEVE SPACKMAN was named most valuable top scorer, ANDREA ORVIK was named most improved, JASON LONDEREE was named most inspirational and STEVE BRIGGS got the coaches award. Hopefully most of the team will return next year to be on the varsity team and lead the way to another season as league champs.

San Ramon Cross Country Dominates the E.B.A.L.

The Boy's Varsity Cross Country Team was not expected to do well in their 1985 season after losing 3 of their top 5 runners, but they went against all expectation! This determined team worked their way to the number one spot along with Monte Vista and Livermore. To do this, they had to beat the "unbeatable" Livermore team and they did. This proved to be the highlight of their season.

At the League Meet they placed 3rd, behind Livermore and Monte Vista, and qualified for North Coast. They took 6th place in the NC meet and from there qualified for the Meet of Champions where they placed 8th. The JV boys were undefeated in all that they did and the Frosh-Soph boys were 2nd in the Dual Meet, winners of the League Meet, and Co-Champions. The girls teams proved to be just as promising this year. The Varsity team placed 2nd in the Dual Meet and won the League Meet, gaining them a Co-Championship.

They proceeded to go to North Coast 3A and from there finished their season at the Meet of Champions. As for the JV girls, they had an undefeated season.

Despite the fact that all of the CC teams were champs in the EBAL, what made the season most rewarding for the teams was the togetherness. Special times like running up Mt. Diablo, the ski trip, and the picnic at Osage Park were the key factors in bringing this unity about. It's what caused members to cheer on everyone else right after their races were finished. Team work and togetherness like this is what High School sports are all about and this is where credit is due!

S.R.'s Girls Get Maino On The Volleyball Court!

Many great things came out of the 1985's girls Varsity Volleyball team. It was a time when the players, and the coach, Glenna Rizzo, grew physically, mentally and spiritually strong. It all started in August . . . The eleven girls packed up Their volleyball shoes, beach supplies, Diet Pepsi, and Ben Gay, as they headed off for U.C. Santa Cruz for a week of conditioning. Six hours a day were dedicated to solid practicing. The spare time (which the players found seldom) was spent eating, sleeping, laughing, or lying in the sun. There were many good times in Santa Cruz as room raids, all night talks, and of course the encounter Jana Johnson and Ann Olson had with the window washers. Team prayer was established one evening which became a tradition before every game.

Many traditions were established this year. The high school letterman sweaters made a come back this fall, brought by the 12 girls. The E.B.A.L. was swept by S.R's hawaiian print shorts which were made by Glenna on her new sewing center. (thanks Glenna!) Dinners were held to strengthen the togetherness and affirmations were made to utilize potential

The high light of the season was the match against Granada. The wolves beat this undefeated team in three straight games. After that victory, all the hard work and long hours paid off. Finishing in 3rd place, the team played in the EBAL Shaughnessy playoffs, and lost the heartbreaker to Granada. Each aspect of the 1985 Varsity Volleyball team was a positive or a growing experience for the players as well as the coach. The players who are graduating from the team this year are; Lisa Althaus, Jana Johnson, Cindy Negrini, Ann Olson, and Tracy Palmer. The seniors want to thank the remaining team for the great times, and they would also like to give their love and thanks to coach, Glenna Rizzo.

A Rad Year For The Girls JV Volleyball Team

The 1985 Junior Varsity Volleyball team broke even at the end of the season. There were only two returning players, Missy Muncy and Lisa Smith, so the team basically started from scratch. Five-foot one, coach Lita Hamilton taught the girls what they needed to know about the game. She related well with the players, and always had a variety of drills to keep the momentum up during practice. Even though the team had some personality conflicts, they managed to play well and have lots of fun.

There were always smiles on the court in practice, until they were forced to run those dreaded sucicides with varsity. Their season turned out to be great learning experience which will benefit the players as they advance to varsity. Captain Missy Muncy said, "At times things were bad, but the good times and memories we had outweighed the bad."

Girls Swing into Winning Season

Girls Varsity Tennis finished a smashing season this year with a 13-1 finishing score. Coach Ralene Gjerman and co-captains senior Lynne Riley and junior Michelle DiPasquale helped make it a special year. The team won games against Amador, Livermore, Granada, California, Dublin, and Foothill. They played each team twice. But the most exciting part of the season were the games against our archrival, Monte Vista. "The first time around we lost to Monte Vista 4-3, and we were totally happy about that because we didn't think we could do that well. So we worked hard the rest of the season and beat them 5-2 the second time", said Lynne Riley. The highlight of the season was Lara Goldt's surprise return to the team after her back problems. It had not looked like she was going to return. Lynne said "It was really special to us that Lara could play again sometimes." Lara, a junior, had been number one in her freshman year but hurt her back and underwent numerous operations. All in all, the team showed a lot of spirit and showmanship. Team picture top row L-R are Coach Gjerman, Tammy Bollingbroke, Ann Gilotti, Monique Barons, Michele DiPasquale, Lynne Riley, Holly Rodemeyer, Jenny Fitzer Second row are Tracy Fredrickson, Denise McCarty, Stacy Block, Janice DeVoe, Julie Henderson and Lisa Heller.

J.V. Girls Show Dedication By Winning the Key Matches

1985 was another industrious year for the San Ramon Junior Varsity Tennis Team. Under the guidance of new coach, Christine Zahn, the junior wolves were on their way to an outstanding year. They had many tough matches along the way, including Monte Vista and Corondelet. Sophomore LISA HELLER led the way for the wolves battling with the best at number one. Winning a majority of her matches, she was a major factor in many of the wolves matches.

The young wolves were not without their troubles though. Conflicting schedules and no place to play made practice in the early season quite a production. Rains also caused practice conflicts. Soon, though the Wolves had their schedules down and their matches were coming up. Opening up with Monte Vista was a cause for concern but the Junior Wolves bounced back after the next match.

With little publicity about their matches, and hardly any spectators, one would wonder why anyone would want to play. Playing J.V. Tennis means a good foundation in tennis, skills, a stepping stone to the Varsity Squad, and with 12 girls, lots of fun! The squad consisted of: Top row: Cindy Shatz, Alisa Borzone, Natalie Radler, Heather Hoelskin, Colby Crossett, Lisa Heller, Jennifer Brethauer, Lisa Welke. SKATE BOARDING

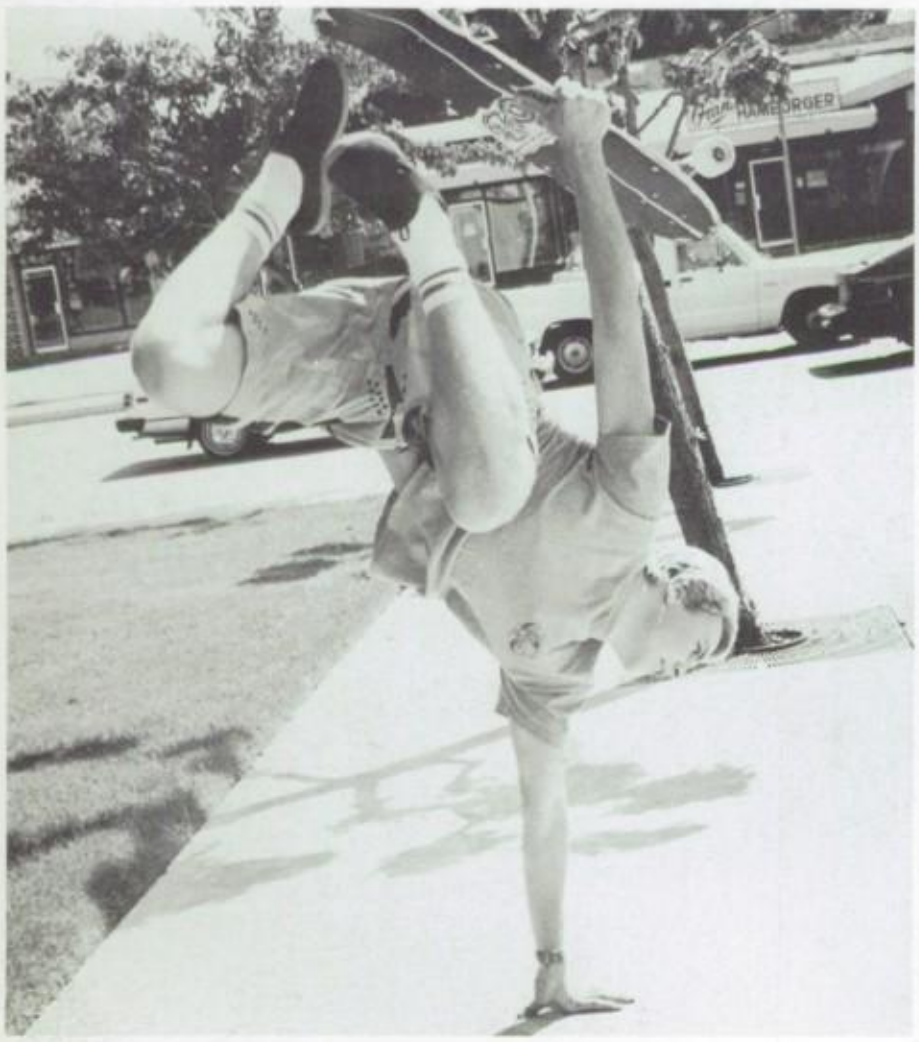
Catch a hill and you're rolling on down the world. Okay skateboarders of America, what is skateboarding all about? "We build our own ramps because all the parks are in Southern California." It is a lot of work, patience, and skill to be able to become a great rider." Some people call skateboarding trendy, but a lot of people take it very seriously. In order to perform with excellence in the contest, hours upon hours are spent practicing. Curbs, hills and cars are no obstacles to a good skateboarder, they're only challenges that make skateboarding on the streets fun and exciting. In the contest, off the street, skateboarding is a whole different sport. Companies sponsor the riders and the competition is tough. This is written to credit those on the psychedelic pieces of wood. I hope people realize the serious side of the skateboarder. It's the crazy and dangerous way of the cruzin and bruzin. Go for it guys!!!



Show Horses

Horses are one of nature's most beautiful and strongest creatures. It takes a lot of work to control a horse's power and to teach them to perform exactly how you, the rider, wants them to. Day after day, hour after hour, the rider trains until the horse is under full control. When a horse is calm, comfortable, and doing excellent at home, then it is time to bring the horse to the shows. A horse show can be small and local, or there are shows that involve tough competition. Shows that involve Nor-Car points, Pacific Coast pts. and California Grand points are the high top competition shows. These take place anywhere from San Diego up to Oregon. It takes a lot of time, patience, skill, desire, love and money to travel to these big shows. Once you're there, it is all worth it.

The two types of riding, English and Western, are both fun and enjoyable and they both take a lot of work and time. To be excellent rider isn't impossible, but it does take years of dedication. There is always something the horse can be taught, and there is always something the rider can learn. Riding horses is a never ending challenge, that only a select and dedicated few have choosen to be part of. Horses are a way of life for some people, and to others they are simply recreation. Just remember riding a horse the right way takes years of experience, and those who can ride well should be given a great deal of credit.

GO-KARTING

The flagman drops the green flag and the Karts are off, racing into turn one! This is a common situation for seventeen year old Tim Elbert. He has been riding go-Karts for four years and has put a lot of time and money into his go cart. The racing colors of his driving suit, helmet, and cart are red, orange, yellow and black. His Kart alone costs around $2,500 and goes about 80 miles per hour on a dirt quarter mile track. Tim has a enclosed trailer with two spare motors, spare tires, clutches, pipes, gears, rims, chains, etc. Tim is all ready for any racing problems that he may encounter.

Senior, Tim, has many wins under his belt. He won first place in the 1984 Winter Nationals along with Two first places in two different classes during the 1985 Winter Nationals. Over the four years he has accumulated around fourty-five trophies, most of which are first place, along with over $1000 in money and prizes. These prizes have been won at Baylands Raceway in Fremont, Hillsferry Speedway in Newman, Sacramento Raceway, and Red Bluff Raceway.

Racing is a family event and Tim enjoys racing with his older brother Chris. They cheer each other on and are the top two racer at Baylands Raceway. Tim plans to race in L.A. at the Grand Nationals with top racers from all over the world.

For all of the times that Tim Elbert has crossed the checkered flag first . . . credit is due!

ROLLERSKATING

Many students aren't quite as involved in the high school extra curricular program as they would like to be, because of outside interests. One of these outside interests is Artistic Rollerskating. It's somewhat like ice skating only it's not as well known or as heavily advertised. Two students here at San Ramon are involved in Artistic Rollerskating. JENNY SUTHERLAND, a sophomore, has been skating for seven years. She has also skated in the Regional Championships five years in a row. DEZ ANASTASIOU, a senior, has been skating for six years and also has skated in the Regional Championships five years in a row.

Jenny and Dez both agree that skating is just like a full time job. It cuts out a lot of social time with friends. "It's hard when a group of your friends go out and you can't go because you have to go to practice," Jenny and Dez commented. "It's sometimes hard, because you feel like your missing out on important activities." In the end however, when they come home with trophies it's all worth it. All the hard work they put in repays them in some way even though it doesn't seem like it sometimes. Yes, they both miss out on high school activities and social gatherings, but as bad as that may seem, they both get a rewarding and satisfying feeling from skating. So let's give CREDIT where CREDIT is due!

WATERSKIING SURFING

There's nothing like having cool water splash against you as you dash to and fro atop a fiberglass board. The California sun is shining bright not a cloud iln the sky, and you're ready to "hit the wakes." Move over skateboarders — here come the water-skiers.

San Ramon is filled with these ambitious water sport students. Bob and Dave Warne, San Ramon surfers, say, "Everyone in Danville skiis — we'd rather hang out at the bench," while CHRIS RODDE says, "It's rad!"

No matter the sport there's no substitute for summer fun. So get ready 'cause we're going on a fun-filled trip to the beach . . . 4:30 — Grab that board, squeeze into that wetsuit. Nobody's around. The sun's peeking out. Water's calm. A brand new North Swell is breaking 8-10 feet at Four Mile. It's a perfect hollow right peel. (The wave is good.) You'r happy now — you made it out without getting "drilled." So you try again and again and again . . .

Now to move away from the sandy beaches to the rocky shores. The lake is shimmering as small ripples pass through the gleam of the sun's rays. You're ready. You've been waiting all day for the calm water of dusk. You reach for your gear as you jump into the boat — ready to ski like you've never skied before. The boat roars with the turn of the key. The water's cold, but you don't care. Hit it! Thumbs up and you're off. After a struggle of balance your arms being pulled until they hurt, you made it — gliding on the glassy water.

"Skiing is the summer sport. No other comes close," says JULIE STEELE. DAVE SOMMERHAUG agrees, "Waterskiing is the best sport under the sun!"

Summer sports — there's nothin' like 'em. So until that September sun shows its face again, reach for that water gear and have fun . . . as BARRY TONGE says, "It's wet and wild. You gotta go nuts!"

Intensity Builds Team Unity And Spirit for Varsity Boys

This year's Varsity Basketball team entered the year with great expectations. Championships at the Friends of the Family Classic and the Independence Tournament helped the Wolves gain a ranking in the East Bay Polls. The Wolves were led by tri-captains John Laurent, Brian Mara, and Eric McDonough. McDonough was honored as the most valuable player in the Friends of the Family Classic and the Independence Tournament. Juniors Rob Heidger, Sean Hogan, and Rob Lindsey also gained All Tournament status during the pre-season. Senior Ken Fleeger, juniors Matt Bowers, Paul Crandell, Chris Cuvelier, Shawn Gundelach, Erin Leck, and Kelly Powell rounded out the young, talented, energetic Wolf Team.

Coach deLannoy's slogan "Perfect practice makes perfect" has proved to be successful. The guys are united and work together. "We've had our ups and downs but now we're on the road to success because this year we're more of a team," states tri-captain Brian Mara. Rob Heidger felt a little intimidated at first playing Varsity Basketball as a junior but the teams's support ended that feeling immediately. San Ramon's win over Monte Vista, 69 to 58, definitely made this season worth all the work the guys put into it.

J.V. Strong Season Makes Next Year Look Promising.

The 1986 J.V. Wolves started their season with a 7-3 preseason winning against strong teams from Logan and Los Lomas. The J.V.'s were lead by Capt./guards Ted Gilkey and Chris Dunne. Pat Fields, 6'6" center provided the rebounding and shooting near the basket. Helping in the key area were sophomores Chris Garcia and freshman Mike Caldwell. Leading shooter on the team was Brian Atkinson. Chris Meredith was the leader in passing and play-making. Assisting with fine ability were freshman Brad Becker and Sophomores Sean McKenna, Shawn Mrochko, and Bryce Sutton. A special thanks goes to Coach Blake and Coach Vasquez for all their time and dedication to the team. Good job Wolves on an outstanding season.

The most exciting thing about the season to Brian Atkinson was being #1. Ted Gilkey sure liked the first place spot too. The J.V. team still has a lot of basketball players they look up to. Chris Dunne looks up to Pat Fields, all 6'7 of him. Then there is Chris Meredith who looks up to Shawn Gundalach. Shawn Mrocho dedicated his last shot of the season to Natalie Wolfe. Ted Gilkey dedicates his to Banana Head while Chris Meredith dedicates his to Kelly Cohen. Most of the team plans on playing next year. Meredith doesn't only want to play next year, he wants the team to dominate. The team would also like to name the gym, "deLannoys Dynasty Dome!!!!!!

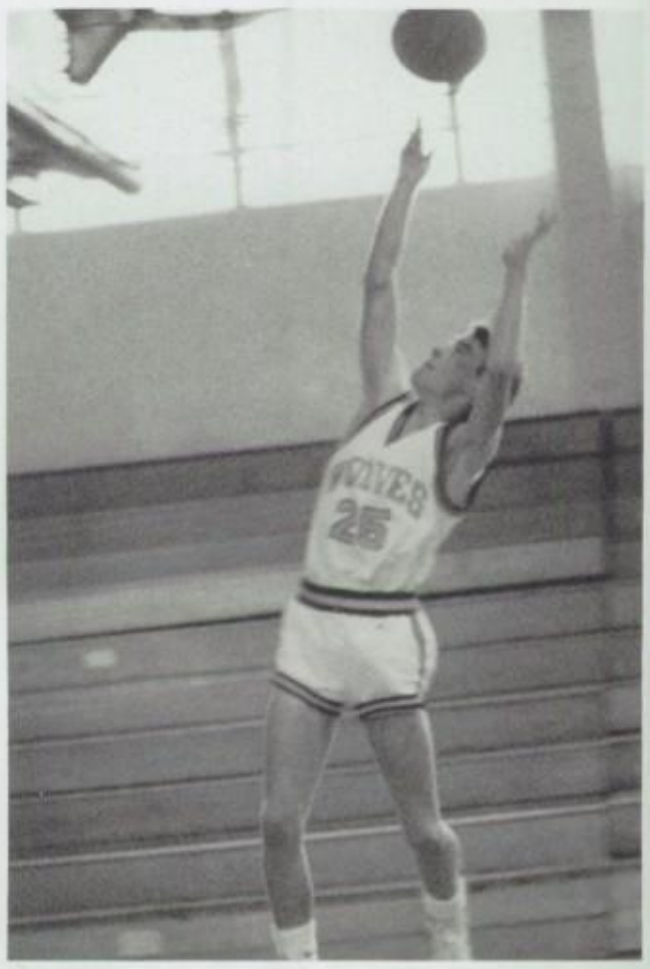
Boys Pull it Together to Have Another Great Season

The freshman basketball team did overwhelmlingy well this year. They were involved in the Moroe Tournament in which they won the Conciliation Championship. Outstanding players were: Benji Heidger, Matt Clawson and Joe Olson. Most improved players include: Jeff Brethauer, John Archinger, Brian Sherman, and John Melchior. Coach deLannoy commented," The kids have been really great and they have all worked very hard during this year's season."

Shawn Barlow commented that the most important thing he learned by playing basketball this year was learning how to play as a team. When asked about the practices, both Will Martin and John Melchior blurted, "We run too much . . . " The teams hard work and team unity paid off though, by ending up 4-3 in league division and 7-6 overall.



Freshmen wait for the game.

Up and down the court they go, Tracey Raehn, Carolyn Raventos, Cindy Negrini, Kathy Nowacek, Hetty Helmers, Kelli Gray, Karen Foley, Jill Deems, Brooke Eisan, Judy Schmidt, and Jenelle Lindsey. The Girls Varsity Basketball Team is at its best! Coach Adami led the team to many victories! It was a long, tiring, and grueling summer, but the team took on summer league and hours of running out on the track. With each practice the team became more unified. With the seniors' experience and knowledge, with the juniors' patience, and with the freshmen's ability to learn quickly, everyone pulled together an outstanding basketball team.

Pre-season was a smash; they knocked out just about every team in their path! The wolves placed third in the Acalanes tournament and in the Bishop O'Dowd tournament. When the league season crept around the corner, the team was ready to play good, solid basketball.

An opening win against Dublin lifted the teams' high spirits, and they walked on to their home court for the next game, ready to play against the Amador Dons. The main rivals, the Dons, were blown away and they were sent back to Pleasanton with tears in their eyes. The rest of the season went great. San Ramon's Girls Varsity Basketball team proved to be one of the best ever. The team was hot and all the work and pain each individual put out, made the team go all the way!!!

Young JV Girls Rise To Victory

After a rough preseason, the JV Girls basketball team came out fighting in league play. The season was marked with a few hearthbreaking losses, but, the team had a record to be proud of. Coach Tom Moore, in his second year as JV coach, assisted his inexperienced girls in becoming winners. The team consists of tri-captains; Carl Nielson, Kate Beldon, and Sue Mason, Saskia Kramer, Sharon Liebowitz, Katy Lyons, Sophie Miladinowich, Kristin Peel, Jenny Piumarta, Valerie Redemske, Stephanie Sims, and Shannon Smith.

Leading scorers were Cari Nielson and Kate Beldon, who filled the post positions. In a preseason win over Lowell High, Kate contributed 18 points in the overtime victory.

Summing up the season, Cari Nielson adds that, "Our major weakness was that we were inexperienced. Next year's team should prove to be a team to remember because of the large number of returnees. We've worked hard this year, and learned a great deal. Together we've come a long way."

Boys Varsity Soccer: Successful Year In Unity

"When there are things at stake, the kids find a way to win." Coach PAT KEOHANE feels that is what made this year's Boys Varsity Soccer team stand-out: their determination and hunger for victory.

The team showed fans that wolf hunger right from their first game against Modesto. This game was not only their first but biggest win. Thanks to some incredible moves by LOU CLARK in the 1st of 2 overtimes, the wolves devoured them with a final score of 3-0.

When asked what he felt to be the team's greatest strength, BRYAN DUFFEL said, "definitely defense." BRYAN BANGSBERG agreed on that point, but added that, JIM MURPHY was our strongest defensive player."

Let's not overlook the superior ability displayed by STEVEN DAUGHTERS in the Livermore game. Coach KEOHANE said this was the best game the guys played. "The Modesto game was our biggest victory as far as scores go. The Livermore game was our best game. The kids really played to the extent of their abilities." On DAUGHTER'S performance against the Cowboys, teammate CHRIS ERNST said, "The game was tough, but STEVEN came through for us."

The team's unity was outstanding. Out there on the field, it's not a "one-on-one." It's a group of people working together, striving for the same end result: VICTORY!

This Freshman Dominated Team Knows How to Score!

It all started with tryouts. The coach, Peter Schultz, and Asst. Coach Brandon Baxter, had to choose 24 players from a group of hopefuls. The coaches looked for skills such as speed, aggressiveness, and overall soccer ability. Although each of these boys had a special talent, they had to learn to play as a team. Their star player and goalie, Scott Shelbourne, was a major factor in their successful season. This freshman dominated team, led by top scorers Joe Varin and Clif Mathews pulled their biggest win over Monte Vista. With such young talented players, we are sure to maintain the wolf pride.

The Girls Varsity Soccer; Staying On Top

"The girl's have the perfect blend of physical and mental strength." Coupled with their incredible defense, Coach Kathy Schalk, believes that is what produced success for this years Girls Varsity Soccer team.

In December the girls took charge of a Christmas tourmament in Freemont. With a first win over Mission, the Wolves moved on to overcome Washington and American. The tourmament ended with a victory, and championship, over EBAL rival Amador in the playoffs. Credit is due for the spectacular performances given by offensive Captain Chris Collins, midfield captain Laura Webb, and the defense, spearheaded by Captain Tracy Prout.

"S.R. was in second place last year, that made us the defending NCS Champions. With Tami Bolligbroke, Tracy Prout and Chris Collins, in the top ten standing, I see no obstacles in our path for this year", Coach Schalk was quoted at mid-season.

Maybe young blood is the key to success. This year's team was comprised of 55% underclassmen. Let's hope so, for if it is, we need only hope for the best season!

JV Girls Soccer Has An Outstanding Season

The 1985-86 girls junior varsity soccer team had a very successful season. With excellent coaching and support from Coach Sue Taekman, the team came out on top.

"They were such a spirited bunch," said Coach Taekman, "and I love every one of them. She also attributed their success to a lack of cliques, which enabled the girls to get along well both on and off the field. Leading the team were co-captains Denise McCarthy and Kelly Wodehouse.

On the defensive end, spectacular performances were given by fullbacks Cindy Mara, Natalie Radler, and goalie Kelly Wodehouse, as the Wolves held their ground.

Finding victory through the nets were offensive halfbacks Alana Cross, Kathy Donegan, Denise McCarthy, along with forwards Julie Henderson, Ali Taekman, and Nikki Iantuano.

Making up the successful team were juniors Kelly Wodehouse, Michelle Talbot, Courtney Attwood; sophomores Denise McCarthy, Cindy Best, Alana Cross, Kathy Donegan, Julie Henderson, Kelsey Jurgenson, and Michell Splithoff; and freshmen Julie Doslak, Nicole Griffin, Nikki Iantuano, Cindy Mara, Natalie Radler, Stephanie Stilwagen, and Ali Taekman.

Wolves Pin Down Opponents

Wrestling is perhaps the most grueling of contact sports. Dedication to winning requires that the wrestler devote a majority of the time in his life to training. Sacrifices go hand in hand with wrestling. If one wants to succeed, he must spend countless hours running, practicing, lifting weights and conditioning. The work doesn't end in the gym, because then he must take it home. Weight loss is a crucial aspect of wrestling. Imagine having to watch your weight so closely that you woudn't be able to have a simple drink of water when you're thirsty. That is sacrifice. After passing this initial test, the wrestler would find himself thrust upon a mat, from which he will either emerge victorious or defeated. This is perhaps the most difficult test. The wrestler must win or lose completely by himself. When on the mat there is nothing teammates can do to help but shout encouragement.

Defending EBAL Champs, the 1985-86 season started with the Wolves placing third at the Seventh Annual San Ramon Invitational, and third at the Los Lomas Togos Classic in Walnut Creek. Every member shows his ability by practicing for 2½ hours every day after school. Practicing includes running up to five miles, lifting weights, and wrestling. Some players like Mike Kopp had to lose 10 pounds to make his weight class. There are 13 different weight classes ranging from 100 pounds and under, to 246 and over.

All together there is a total of 45 wrestlers. Matt Blumenthal, Jeff Buhl, Dave Akin, and Jamie Combs proved to be outstanding freshmen members. Other members on the Junior Varsity team are Marc Ellis, Brendon Ellis, and Shane Watkins who will soon be varsity material. The varsity captains were Jordan Robinson, Will Gray, and Mike Kopp.

At the Seventh Annual San Ramon Invitational, Mike Kopp (178) took first place, and the outstanding wrestler award. Will Gray took second in the 194 class after being impaired by a broken nose and a pinched nerve in his right arm rendering it useless. Matt Flanagan also took second in the 129 class against another tough opponent. Also placing high was Gerald Hatley, third at 5, Craig Miller at heavyweight, Steve Borgene fourth at 148, Jerry Draper fourth at 135, Vic Curtis fifth at heavy-weight, and Jordan Robinson fifth at 168.

At the Los Lomas Togos Classic, there were three champions, Gerald Hatley a sophomore who also was a North Coast Champion, senior Jordan Robinson (168), and junior Mike Kopp (178) who also placed third. Other placers were Todd Nichol (141), Jerry Draper (139), Matt Flanagan (128), and Dan Stanley (134).

Any school knows the Wolves are tough to beat, and San Ramon continues to prove it, as could be seen in many of the news articles at the beginning of the season. Headline such as "The Wolves Will Again Dominate" covered many predictions. In league competion, opponents such as Amador found themselves running up a brick wall when trying to combat the Wolves. Amador found themselves done with the match before they had a chance to score a single point against the Wolves.

SR Racers Find Fun and Victory on the Slopes!

In past years, San Ramon has always had an excellent ski team and the 1986 alpine racing team was no exception. The team, consisting of twenty members, proved to be on the best in SR's racing history. The wolves ranked in the top three of the South Division, including San Ramon, Davis, El Dorado, Ponderosa, and Oakridge. The team also produced a number one ranked men's team.

The skiiers' ambition and dedication to their sport was evident. Along with advisor Judy Hunter, they trained at Kirkwood Resort starting in the beginning of December. Their training not only consisted of skiing, but ice skating as well. The racing season started in early January and ended with the championships in March.

Everyone on the team put in a great deal of effort and their support for one another and the team was outstanding. According to team member John Lundblad, "We are one big happy family!" Dedication, enthusiasm, and skill are just a few of the things that have made the SR Ski Team great! After all, they come from the "Home of Champions" . . . so give credit where credit is due!

Boys' Track Hurdles The Competition

The San Ramon Boys' Track teams continued their tradition of individual and team success in 1986. Under new head coach Gerry Geraghty, the wolves outshowed the majority of their opponents. The Frosh-Soph team, led by such standouts as Sean Guthrie, Stephen Vilke, and Jeff Buhl, worked hard, and saw the payoff in a winning season. The Varsity also enjoyed a year of success, many attributing this to the unusual pool of talent San Ramon possessed in all the various aspects of track, including sprints, distance, and field events.

Sprinters such as Geoff Burke, Steve Hempler, Mark Pearce, and Kirk Howard constantly left challengers behind them and eating their dust. Howard, one of many returning Varsity sprinters, was one of the faster runners in the league.

In the field events, San Ramon was particularly dominant. The pole vaulters, led by Rett Summerville and Randy Parco, turned away countless opponents. Summerville was a former Meet of Champions performer as a sophomore, and returned to an even greater year in 1986. The weights, led by Rick Cox and Mike Isola at shot, and Steve Grabowsky and Jeff Oclon in the discus, also dominated. Many opponents couldn't even grab a third place against the strength of the wolves. Cox was another junior returning from the Meet of Champions to enjoy an even greater season this year.

With the long distance events, runners such as Doug James, David Hayes, and Todd Bogdan gave the wolves added punch and rounded out a great team. Challengers found it tough to try to beat the strong kick these runners had down the homestretch.

All-in-all, the season was filled with many ups and downs. There were those who won, and those who lost. But each and every one was a winner just by willing to accept the challenge.

Girls Track: Always Crossing The Line

This season the San Ramon Girls track team looked to continue a long winning tradition. Over the last five years in the league competition the girls have a record of 78-9. We had returning school record and state meet performer Laura Carter. Our weight group looked to lead the East Bay with Julie Henderson, Kelli Gray, Kathy Swedberg, Aimee Brown, Shelly Gorum and a host of others. Pulling us through the ribbon this year were some of our outstanding runners: Kathy Nowacek, Lisa Althause, and Kim Seymour. Our fine coaching staff combined with enthusiastic students, made this a memorable part of their high school experience. There was a place for everyone on this team; everyone competes, no one sits and watches.

San Ramon Swimmers Go For Another Championship Season

Once again, the Wolves rule! The San Ramon Varsity swimmers had their ninth consecutive championship season at EBAL this year, but it wasn't as easy as it sounds. Each varsity swimmer knows the absolutely exhausting routine of getting up at 5:30 each morning, swimming for an hour, going to school, and then jumping back into the pool for another two hour workout after classes, not to mention those Saturday workouts. Even after all this, they still managed to fit in homework and various other social activities. Aren't they amazing?

Well, don't forget the coaches! Rick Zumbro and Jon Leach are those two brave guys who really helped out the team this year. Staying after all those extra hours to work on stroke technique and timing, the coaches led the team through thick and thin, meet after meet, with their toughest competition being Campolindo, Northgate, Miramonte, and Carondelet (for the girls).

Not only did the team capture the EBAL title, but they also placed well at North Coast. Strong swimmers this year included team members Sheila Welke (captain), Mary Evans (captain), Cari Cheney, Kelly Hayes, Elaine McDonald, Kelli Cohen, Lynn Kaufman, Lisa Welke, Kristen Seargent, Carolyn Carty, Craig Dolley (captain), Matt Gibson (captain), Jack Pentlarge (captain), Jim Wilson (captain), Seth Abbott, and Andrew Shattuck.

In all, the team did awesome! So, give credit where credit is due!

Every JV swimmer's goal is to make Varsity. The 1986 JV team is about 50 swimmers strong and they've proved to be hard working and united. They will undoubtly be strong Varsity swimmers. Penny Leach is coaching this year's JV team. Promising JV swimmers for this year are: Carrisa Johnson, Danella Carter, Laura Goldt, Simone Rayner, Heidi Comroe, David Cox, Neal Bangater, and Kevin Hartnett. JV swimmers don't practice in the morning with Varsity swimmers. Instead they practice only after school. David Cox likes swimming because, "The people are fun to be with and Penny is really nice." Heidi Comroe also swims because she likes the people and "swimming helps you get into shape for the summer!"

Varsity Tennis Rallies For A Successful Season

As the sun glistens brightly on the rackets, the familiar sounds penetrate the air with thumps, whirring, and swooskes. San Ramon Valley's Boys Varsity Tennis team is at practice again. With 7 Seniors, 5 Juniors, and one Freshman, Varsity looked strong this year; according to Coach Eric Henze, "one of the best in the East Bay."

As a Junior, Jeff McCann continues to be the one to watch: Jeff is number one singles. Last year as a Sophomore he played number one. Jeff not only continued the tradition he will improve it. He got some tough competition throughout most of the season, but proved to be one of the top 2 or 3 players in the league.

Three very strong players who made up the next three singles spots (in no particular order) are Steve Daughters, Brett Hanson, and John Montgomery. Steve, a Junior, and Brett, a Senior, both played last year, while John, the only Freshman is new this year.

Scott Jacobs (Senior), Greg Lane, (Junior), Bruce Sulzberg (Senior), Dave Summerhaug (Senior), and Steve Hammond (Junior) fought it out for the last singles spot. All were good players, all earned letters last year, and all did very well at that spot.

The two doubles team were made up of Scott Kumnick (Senior), Brent Rodemeyer (Senior), Sean Thomas (Junior), and Dave Weinstein (Senior). The teams showed a lot of potential and promised to be good.

Varsity's outlook was enthusiastic and dedicated, and the schedule was challenging, with Foothill and Monte Vista standing as the major competition.

Boys' JV Tennis Team Has Superior Season

The Boys' Junior Varsity Tennis Team had a great season. "This is the best J.V. Tennis Team since I've been here" says Christ Swany, Junior. The members of the tennis team are Peter Vandersloot, Mike Adamson, Chris Fisher, Joe Vietri, Glenn Sulzberg, Steve Mann, Chris White, Pat Davison, Robert Schneider, Kevin Harkbeater, and Nils Sommerhaug. The team is headed by faculty advisor Ralene Gherman. "This is my first year playing tennis and it's really exciting to be a part of the team" says Peter Vandersloot; sophomore. The team takes itself seriously, though. They practice every day, and have meets ever Tuesday and Thursdays. "The better you get, the better opponents you have to play. So you're always improving," Nils Sommerhaug comments. The J.V. team certainly gave it their all! Another thing that keeps the team constantly on their toes is that everyone is constantly competing to get onto the Varsity Team. When a Junior Varsity player keeps winning his games, he moves up and receives his letterman jacket, and then he is considered a Varsity player, even if he is still on the J.V. team. This keeps everyone in constant competition with each other. Team pic Top: Peter Vandersloot, Mike Adams, Chris Swany, Steve Mann, Chris White, Pat Davison, Robert Schneider. Co-Ed Golf Team Shows Spirit!

This year's golf team is headed by faculty advisor Larry DeRushia and team captain Sean Clark. The team members are Sean Clark, Derek Mueller, Colin Wren, Alex Robles, Damon Powell, Kevin Casey, Josh Takman, Derek Helgeson, Brian Ashley, Scott Brown, and Shannon Clark. The team practices daily except for matches on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Most of the members have played for about seven years. The team has a reputation for excellence. Last year they came one stroke away from winning the Northern California Championships. The team says that this year the championship is theirs because they have more depth on the roster. (That means they have a lot of good backups). The team has a lot of spirit and members enjoy being on a team as much as the sport. This is the golf teams second year as a Co-Ed team, and we're sure they'll do very well. They work as hard as any other team, but get little recognition. So, let's give credit where credit is due!

The entire team was really on the ball! Returning as defending EBAL league champions the 1986 team was determined to win the league title again. Each and every one of the players gave it his all and the team worked together to gain many victories. Achievement and success have always been a big part of San Ramon's sports, and the boys Varsity Baseball team was no exception! Rain or shine the team gave it their all and proved to be number one. It takes a lot of dedication and pain to make a group of talented baseball players become number one and Coach Steen pulled them all together to make an awesome baseball team. We should give credit where credit is due, and the Varsity team deserves much praise.

J.V. Baseball has a ball in 1986 season!

This year's J.V. Baseball team was great. Coach Rod Ingram had many tough decisions from the start. Originally 60 players went out for the 1986 J.V. Baseball team and Coach Ingram had to cut it to 30 players. From there, he had to cut it to the final team of 18 players. Coach Ingram said that this was the hardest year to cut because there were so many talented players to choose from. On the team this year, there were five returning players: Jim Radler, Scott Tarpley, Mike Quinn, Steve Redwine and Chris Dunn. Some of the team had to stay on J.V. because the Varsity team had so many good players. Coach Ingram said some good players that stood out on this year's team were John Gruen, Matt Rasmussen, Art Roema and Steve Bayer. All in all, this year's team did very well and should be given credit for their hard work. Bottom: Jim Radler, Sean Gotleb, Steve Bayer, John Gruen, Brandon Arellano. Wolf Cubs Bat Their Way to Success!

The freshmen baseball team was a "hitting" success this year! It all started at tryouts. Ric Tokoph thought that tryouts were gnarly because he made it. Brad Becker felt that it was okay, except that the freshmen didn't have a choice of fields.

After tryouts they all started thinking about what the season ahead was going to be like. Brett Herting felt that they had a good team and that they should have an awesome season. Brad Becker thought that the season is going to be better if the cheerleaders come out to cheer. Brad Ervin said with a positive attitude, "winning."

Of course, to have a winning season a lot of practice needs to be done. The best part of practice to Jeff Parson is watching Lisa Heller and Melissa Lunstedt walk by. The team, as a whole, likes it when Mike Joyce takes batting practice because we all get to rest and even sit down. Brad Becker likes it when it is time to run!

During the season, if Mike Caldwell could dedicate a homerun to someone it would be to Jenny. Jeff Dallas would dedicate his to all of his thousands of admirers and followers. Mike Joyce would dedicate his to Chris Titzer because he is his idol and he has never hit one of his own before. For Brad Ervin he would hit one for himself.

When the season comes to an end, they will have next year to look forward to. Brian DeMain and Larry Spinetta would love to be involved in next years baseball program but unfortunately their contract with the Padres won't allow them to. Ric Tokoph may be a part of the program, depending on the pay. An anonymous baseball player plans to play next year because in what other sport do you not only get to play but get to watch all of the good looking track girls walk by.

That's the freshmen baseball team for you. A special thanks goes to Coach Turnball for all of his time and effort!!!!

Girls Varsity Softball: A Real "Hit"!

"Take me out to the ballgame! Take me out to the fun!" And what a season full of fun it has been for the Girls' Varsity Softball team! Hard work and dedication has led the team through a winning season when they "hit" the top this year. Under Coach Vasquez the girls ran, caught, and batted their way continuously upward. "It's been a great season, one to be proud of," says Coach Vasquez, "there's a lot of talent on this team . . . the record proves it."

With the "unbatable" talents of HOLLY VASQUEZ and DEEDEE MACCARTHY the Wolves appeared to be ready for anything the opposition "pitched." In addition, pitcher KAREN FOLEY'S underhand throws were "striking," and LYNN SMITH, ANN OLSON, and JANA JOHNSON had outfield abilities that deserved much credit. San Ramon's infield positions, played by "JULES" STEELE, first base, HOLLY VASQUEZ, second base, CHRIS COLLINS, third base, DEE-DEE MACCARTHY, short stop, and KARA DAVEY, catcher worked together with successful results. So here's to the great ballgame girls . . . "Hats off to ya!"

JV Girls Bring Hope for Future

The 1986 Junior Varsity Softball team produced high hopes for the future. This talented group of girls put out their best efforts to capture their spot in the season. This hard work mixed with the balance of offensive and defensive talent, made for a pretty strong team. Offensively, strong hitting was demonstrated by Tina Barry, Natalie Adler, and Janelle Lindsay. In the tight situations, Holly Rodemeyer could always be called upon to lay down the crucial bunt. Other players, such as Judy Schmidt always did their best to make sure the wolves came through.

On the other side of the ball, players such as Stacy Joyce and Anne Fefley made tough S.R. defense. Other teams found the pitches from Kris Nardechia practically unhittable. Coach McGinnis was proud of the showing the girls made during the season, and has high hopes for many of them next year on Varsity. On the right is pictured the 1986 Girls Junior Varsity Softball Team.

Second Year's Experience Proves To Be An Advantage

This is only the second year for SR's boy's volleyball team. Although, with the exception of Cal High, we have the only team in the local area, boy's volleyball is quickly spreading to become a popular school sport. Yet in this early stage there aren't any leagues so the boys play as an independent team. With no championship to strive for the team members might be expected to have a "beach ball" attitude about the sport, but according to Senior Barry Tonge, there is "a definite winning feeling on the team."

This feeling seems to be a fact with the large number of returnees. There are high expectations after one year's experience of victory. Coach Dave Myers is positive that they "shouldn't be dominated by anybody."

Myers depends on Barry Tonge and Randy James to do most of the setting. Returning hitters Chris Raventos and Andrew Atkinson should be strong in the middle blocking, while ace hitters Brian Fortuin and Dave Ninekirk should control the outside.

Monkey see, monkey do!

This year's Spiritleaders definitely had it! Through the 1985-1986 school year they proved to be capable of doing a lot more than just cheering at games. They promoted school spirit, supported various sports and activities, and worked very hard to be the best possible.

It all started out when the semi-finalists (who were chosen by the school and the administration on the basis of a taught routine, individual routine, grades, and the judge's interview), anxiously entered the CC-Complex. They were waiting to see who would be the lucky ones to receive a flower from last year's squad, signifying their new position as a Spiritleader. This is where the excitement began for those 24 chosen girls who had more in store for them than they ever imagined!

Within a matter of weeks, these girls grew closer, making many new decisions together. Uniforms were picked, captains were chosen, practice schedules were set, and camp dates were selected. They thought it was fun sharing their ideas in making up what they felt was the best routine they could. With this routine, they attended United Spirit Association (USA) camp at UC Santa Cruz, representing their school and a summer of hard work. All of the dedication sure paid off as these enthusiastic girls came home with three Superior trophies, a poster award, and a Spirit Award plus a lot of memories to look back on through out the year.

September 3 brought on many new responsibilities and challenges, for these girls wanted to do more than just support the two sports at which they cheered so that spirit would spread. They proceeded to attend as many girls and boys sporting events as possible and encouraged others to do the same. This sometimes meant wearing their uniform to school as many as three times a week to publicize the games. But the response to their new ways was nothing but positive and it promoted school spirit in more ways than one.

Of course these extra activities were not to interfere with their performances as Spiritleaders. Many long hours went into three or more practices a week because these girls wanted to look and feel the best they possibly could about all they did. Through the course of the year, they were expected to set a good example as they represented their school. The contract which they signed last April was to be lived up to which meant maintaining a 2.0 GPA, being punctual and responsibile, and always using good judgement concerning their behavior in or out of uniform. They really appreciated their new advisors, Miss Yee and Mr. Miller, looking after them and always being there when help and encouragement were needed.

The glory may not always be there, but through the eyes of a Spiritleader, the honor always is! These girls have considered all of their hard work, in promoting school spirit, a challenge and a privilege. They have experienced a most rewarding year because of this too. Dance Team . . . A "Step" In the Right Direction!!!!

The Dance Team. It was new to San Ramon this year and seems to be the type of program that will continue to grow successfully.

Although this team did not get the publicity that most S.R. teams got this year, the response was rather encouraging! The advanced dancers, many of whom have been involved in the S.R. Dance Program for three years, were pretty excited about what the dance team was all about.

Carol MacPhail, better known as "Mac" by her dancers, has been teaching dance here for nine years. She decided to start a dance team in association with the Federal Arts Institution. The team would allow girls to be involved in many different performances throughout the school year rather than gearing everything toward only the annual show.

Mac decided to run the team on a voluntary basis this year amongst her advanced dancers, sort of as a trial. She said that it is hard when she has volunteers for each performance because sometimes there are too many volunteers and other times there are those who will make only a partial commitment. Mac is considering having auditions for next year's team for a manageable number of members and the opportunity to do more performances and expand.

The twenty dance team members were involved in a benefit show for the Special Olympics, the Ski Swap dance and fashion show, rallies, Greenbrook Elementary School's Father-Daughter Dinner, the Fine Arts Award Night, and the Senior "All-Nighter." They thoroughly and put their all into each performances!

Three girls who decided to get into the competitive side of the dance team were Juniors Shannon Cardoza and Peggy Leonard and Senior Tracy Armour. Shannon and Tracy attended the Monterey High School Dance Competition in March. As a student recognition project, Peggy and Shannon each won $100.00 savings bonds from the competition presented by the San Ramon Valley Business and Educators Round Table.

Of course, the biggest thrill of the year for dance team members is the annual dance show. The show usually features about seventy people from Beginning, Intermediate, and Advanced Dance classes.

This year's show ran May 21, 22, & 23 in the Little Theater. It was entitled "Take One" with a movie theme in mind and consisted of solos, duets, trios, and many group numbers. Once again, there was "standing room only" and an overwhelming response from the audience! Mac describes her job as rewarding and says, "The people that make me the proudest are those who have really improved through the dance program and made their way up!" She realizes that she always has to feature the best, but watching people grow is what makes it all worthwhile!!

Rallies Enthrall

"We Are, S.R. We Are, S.R. S-O-P-H-O-M-O-R-E-S, Sophomores, sophomores are the best!, Academic Institution, '86, '86 '86 '86. Class Competitions. Here are the Pom Girls." These among many others, are some of the more common phrases heard at the San Ramon rallies this year.

Under the heading of Nancy Wong and Nicole Selinger, rallies at San Ramon took an upward surge in popularity this school year. Better sound equipment and funnier skits were some of the reasons for the newfound popularity. Better organization and more skit practice could be seen by the smoothly running skits and the smiling and laughing students.

As usual, Opening Day and Homecoming were the most popular rallies of the year. At the Opening Day rally, Freshmen eagerly waited to see what a "rally" was all about. Unfortunately for them, they found themselves to be the butt of many jokes. As the Seniors clapped and yelled approval, the new freshman sat embarrassed and red. The Homecoming rally, with the announcement of the Royal Court, is always looked forward to in total anticipation. This year things ran smoothly as a well rehearsed skit about the Acadamy Awards finally announced the winners.

Class competitions also provide for much fun during the rallies. More often than not, these "competitions" really weren't because of the superiority of the senior class. Strange, the senior class always seems to win.

Comparing the rallies to the past couple of years, this year's rallies were 100% improved. The organization and time put into them really paid off. Even if rallies aren't your cup of tea, at least they make the day seem a bit more bearable.

"THE LATE GREAT ME"

THE FALL 1985 DRAMA PRODUCTION was put on in conjunction with the S.A.D.D. Students Against Drunk Driving, to show a realistic view of teenage alcoholism. The audience sees the alcoholic teen, played by MEGHAN STEWART, from the beginning of her drinking problem through detoxification. They also grow to understand the motives of her mother, played by JULIE ANN DELONG, and especially her brother, played by BRETT WALKER, who discovers that her alcoholism is destroying their social lives as well as their personal lives.

Before the play opened S.A.D.D. arranged for people from the county Alcoholism council to speak to the cast and also hooked them up with Alcoholics Anonymous. MEGHAN STEWART, along with other cast members, went to AA meetings to research their roles. Cast member, TRISHA JOHNSON states, "I didn't know that there are really a lot of people with alcohol problems. There were situations in the play that I couldn't imagine someone being in."

Drama Director Carrie Day said she was waiting for the right social climate to put on this production. She had read the script four years ago and wanted to put it on, hoping that the administration wouldn't reject it for its controversial nature.

Overall, the cast felt very good about their performances. Individual members of the cast could all relate to the play in one way or another. The message that it brought to the audience had an overwhelming effect.

Spring Feature

It Happens Every Summer

Playing to capacity crowds on March 13, 14, 20, and 21, the Spring Dramatic Production, "It Happens Every Summer" was a big success. Starting with over eighty people trying out, the cast of 23 was soon chosen. Through February and March, the cast worked long and hard at many after school and evening rehearsals. Practicing without furniture for most of the time, things went much more smoothly once it arrived. One week before they opened, panic began to strike the cast members. The set wasn't done, costumes still needed to be found, and everyone wanted to know if Stacey Stilwagen and Meghan Stewart would ever be able to cry on cue. Despite all these problems, the show went on beautifully. Without the direction of Mrs. Day or student director Angie Dunmire, the spring comedy wouldn't have happened.

"It Happens Every Summer" takes place at the offices of Debutante Magazine in New York City. Eight lucky girls were picked to be "sub-deb" editors for the month of June. The 8 girls are introduced to fancy parties, high fashion clothes, celebrities, and most importantly, new and exciting men. Editor-in-Chief Lucy Jennings Woodruff (Julie DeLong) runs Debutante with the help of Gretchen Dana (Jill Crowther), Larae Donohue (Sylvia Perfetto), Marge Powell (Juanita Cox), and the sassy receptionist Gert (Kelly Marich). Photographer Tod Colbert (Rex Robbins) falls in and out of love with sub-deb editor Jennifer Truex (Amy Blunden) while Flippy Wonder (Stacey Stilwagen) falls head over heels for singer Pudgy Roulette (Eric Greenwald). Regardless of the trials and tribulations of the girls, happiness for all prevails in the end. Give credit to the cast for a job well done.

Wolf Print

TRACKING DOWN ALL THE NEWS

Credit is definitely due to the "Wolf Print" staff this year; It really has become a school paper which represents all. The editors and staff have worked hard to accomplish this goal, and their reward has been nothing but a year of positive responses.

The staff has been made up of many reporters. MICHELLE McEVOY headed the paper as Editor-in-Chief. She received a great deal of help and dedication from Assistant Editor, AMY BATES and Editorial Editor, ALVIN LU. The other editorial positions were rotated amongst staff members.

As Assistant Editor, Amy does the assigning of stories and makes sure that the staff meets their deadlines. Stories are assigned according to what editors feel each staffer can write well. Rarely are members asked to write about something in which they're involved.

All editors proofread, type, and lay out the paper. Many hours of hard work go into each edition. Sometimes as many as ten hours of out-of-class work is involved.

Everyone has put all of his effort into having a paper that comes out every two weeks or regulated prior to vacations or big events.

As head editor, Michelle has tried to include many new ideas in this year's paper. They have inserted direct quotes in every story and more pictures have been a part of every paper. The new printing deal with a local printer, who does advertising and prints it for free, helps a great deal.

Michelle always tries to encourage letters to the editor and guest writers. She says, "It's not my paper; it's San Ramon's paper!"

It is good to hear such an unselfish attitude from someone in charge. Michelle's job isn't always easy. She must deal with the love or hate people have for her editorials and complaints. In general, though, she feels the response has been good. "We've had a really good staff this year. There's output; people are writing stories and that's good." said Michelle.

Kim Wolozin and Raj Kapur are really impressed with the outcome of the paper.

Yearbook: We did it!

For most people, a yearbook is something they receive at the end of the year, something they glance through once or twice to search for their picture or just a place for their friends to write. For the staff, the yearbook is the product of hours of dedication and hard work. Taking pictures, picking print styles, drawing layouts and writing copy are all done while trying to meet deadlines. This means extra hours were spent after school and on weekends.

This year's staff got off to a rough start with the absence of our advisor, Mrs. Donovan, who was at home with her new baby girl. And a change was made in publishing companies. Under the direction of Dez Anastasiou and Allison Schlesinger, as our editors, the staff pulled through to produce a book to be proud of. The entire staff has put a lot of effort into this year's book. We all hope you will enjoy it for years to come.

Dance Club

The Dance Club is a group of Advanced Danced students who came together to perform. They participate in the annual dance production, as well as performing at the Father-Daughter Dinner on February 6. Primarily a working club, they are advised by Carol MacPhail.

The Drama Club combines both talent and fun in its members. One highlight of their year was a trip to Los Angeles for a Thespian Conference. Other activities included a Christmas Caroling Party and a soap opera. Mrs. Carrie Day is the Advisor.

Drama Club

FBLA (Future Business Leaders of America) has members who have a definite direction for their futures: business. As a club, they participate in many activities that give them hands-on experience.

Future Business Leaders of America

The purpose of the Fantasy War Games is to provide members with the means and place to play a variety of fantasy games. This year, besides their many "gaming parties," they attended a Dungeons and Dragons Convention in February.

Members include: Heather Hobson, Ross Orvik, Mike Jones, Ian Williams, Rusty Davidson, Greg Goodman, Charlie Mahakian, Stuart Cheu, Paul Goodman, Steve Stabler.

Fantasy War Games

French Club

This year, the French Club has become an active part of the "club community" at SR. Through many activities, such as a Christmas party, and trips to French restaurants, the club has succeeded in its purpose; to provide a way for students interested in the French language to have fun learning about French culture.

Members are (L to R): Ann Harrington, Cory Davis, Lili Cowen, Ann Rierson, Joel Abrian, Stephanie Rogers, Marcie Smith, Phil Strenson, Monique Ardeneni, Sharon Mizota, Debbie Michaels, Dave Patch.

Improvisational Troupe

The Improv Troupe is a group of talented people who also happen to be naturally funny, and can share this with groups of people.

Members are: Mrs. Carrie Day, Kirk Leininger, Amy Blunden, Meghan Stewart, Eric Greenwald, Rob MacDonald, (front) Chris Duncan, Jennifer Goldstein, Lilli Cowen, Doug James, Lora Decarlo, Yolanda Fisher.

International Club

The International Club has a unique way to learn about other countries: it actually has citizens of other countries in its club. Seven Foreign Exchange students have a chance interact with other cultures, as well as learn how to deal with various types of people. Field trips and parties also help contribute to a great atmosphere.

The Key Club is an international youth organization which promotes service and leadership in the home, school, and community. Fundraisers and service projects give some fun while doing worthwhile activities. This year one member, Dianna Harms, served as a member of the District Board as Lieutenant for Contra Costa County.

Key Club

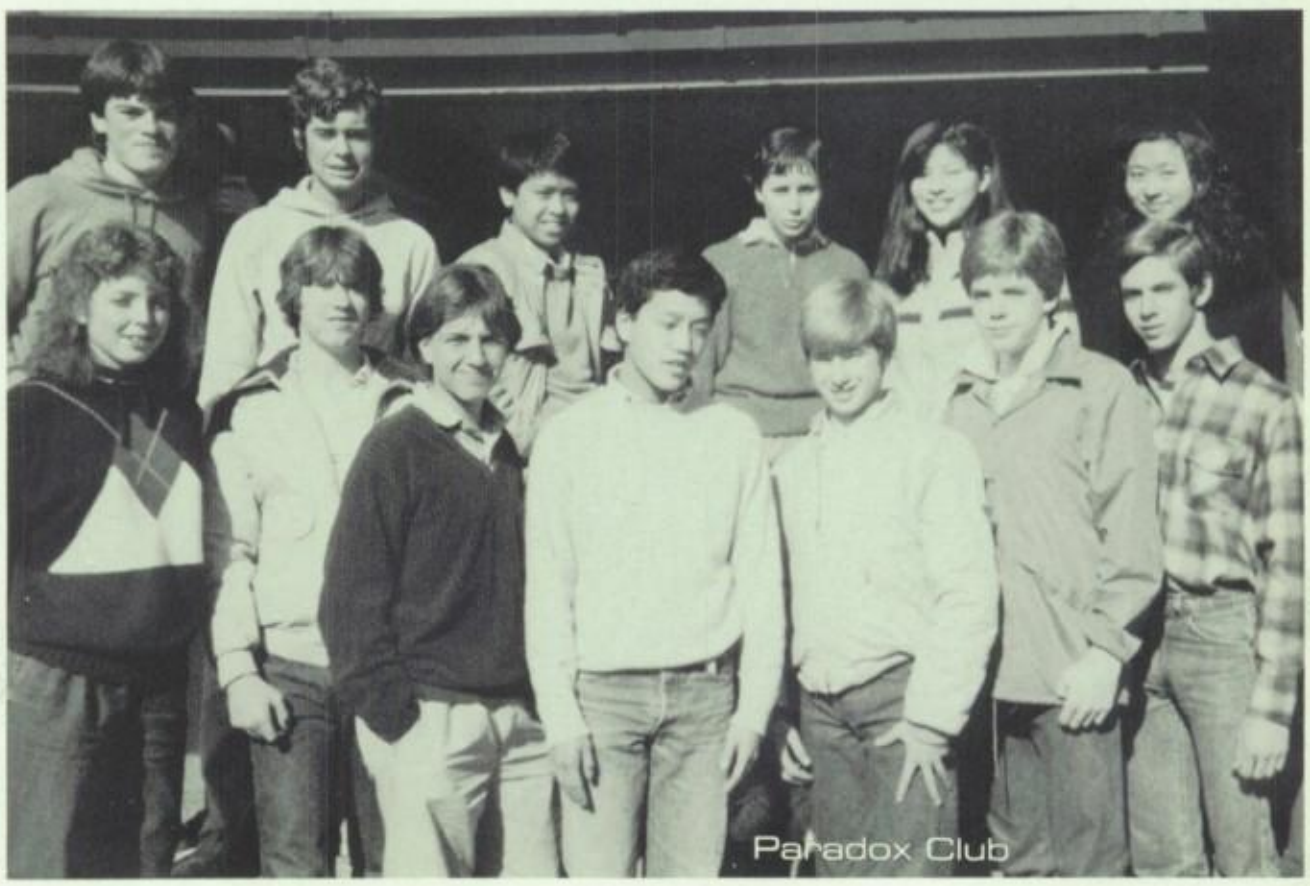
Some members are: Jill Crowther, Dianna Harms, Meghan Stewart, Paige Heagerty, Shelly Gorum, Denise Solecki.

Another service at SR is the National Honor Society. Advised by John Hankerson, NHS has high academic standards, as well as a desire for fun. One activity planned was a trip to Los Angeles to view colleges and amusement parks.

National Honor Society

Members are (back) Loren Javier, Chris Deems, Geoff Burke, David Weinstein, Brian Jewett, (middle) Steve Vilke, Michelle Vogelgesang, Kim Kono, Colin Wren, Eric Hoffmann, Teri Young, Roger Snyder, Jose Abrian. (front) Anne Warshaw, Kristen Seargent, Yolanda Fisher, Michelle McEvoy, I-Ching Wu.

The Paradox Club (math club) members all share an interest in the magic of numbers. With meetings and parties, they keep in touch and have fun.



Paradox Club

Members are: (back) Daniel Filner, Roger Snyder, Phil Tiongson, Ann Pedone, I-Chien Wu, I-Ching Wu. (front) Vicki Ellis, Kevin Eckert, Phil Colline, Alvin Lu, Joe Beaton, Greg Wiggins, Neal Roberts.

Photography Club

The Photography Club is a group of Advanced Photo students who share a love for both the art and their teacher, Ralph Rappaport. They absorb his knowledge in an atmospere charged with electricity, and go on to apply it to their everyday lifestyles.

Students Against Driving Drunk

Students Against Driving Drunk is a rapidly growing club at SR. Sadd's purpose is to make students aware of the problems of driving drunk, and the fact that there is an alternative. Besides many awareness activities the club has sponsored, a Safe Rides program was planned for in early Spring.

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club is a group that gets together to find out about the cultures of Spanish-speaking countries, particularly Mexico and those in South America. They have been very active selling hot chocolate, planning Pan-Americn Day, a Christmas party, a trip to Mexico, and trying to get a sister school in Mexico.

Members are: Patrick Sutherland, Chris Campbell, Steve Roman, Lauren Javier, Maureen Keating, Vicki Ellis, Susi Stein, Eric Roman.

The Speech Club Boasts about 100 members, and has been very active with such functions as the San Ramon Invitational Meet, Crescent City Invitational meet, a debate meet in Santa Rosa, and the State Speech Meet:

Members are: Laura Guthrie, Monica Hunt, Katie Lyons, Chris Swany, Paige Heagerty, Lynn Kauffman, Tom Collucci, Lynn Stanton, Michelle Pedigo, Sylvia Perfetto, Amy Blunden, Meghan Stewart, Jill Crowther, Trisha Johnson, Donni Rice, Katy Lyons, Yolanda Fisher, Eric Greenwald, Rob MacDonald, Kelly Marich.

Speech Club

The Thespians are an elite group of actors and actresses. To belong to this group, a certain amount of theatre points are required. This year, along with the Drama Club, the Thespians attended a conference in Los Angeles for Thespians across the nation.

Thespians

The Academic Decathalon team this year consisted of many bright students, led by Mr. John Hankerson.

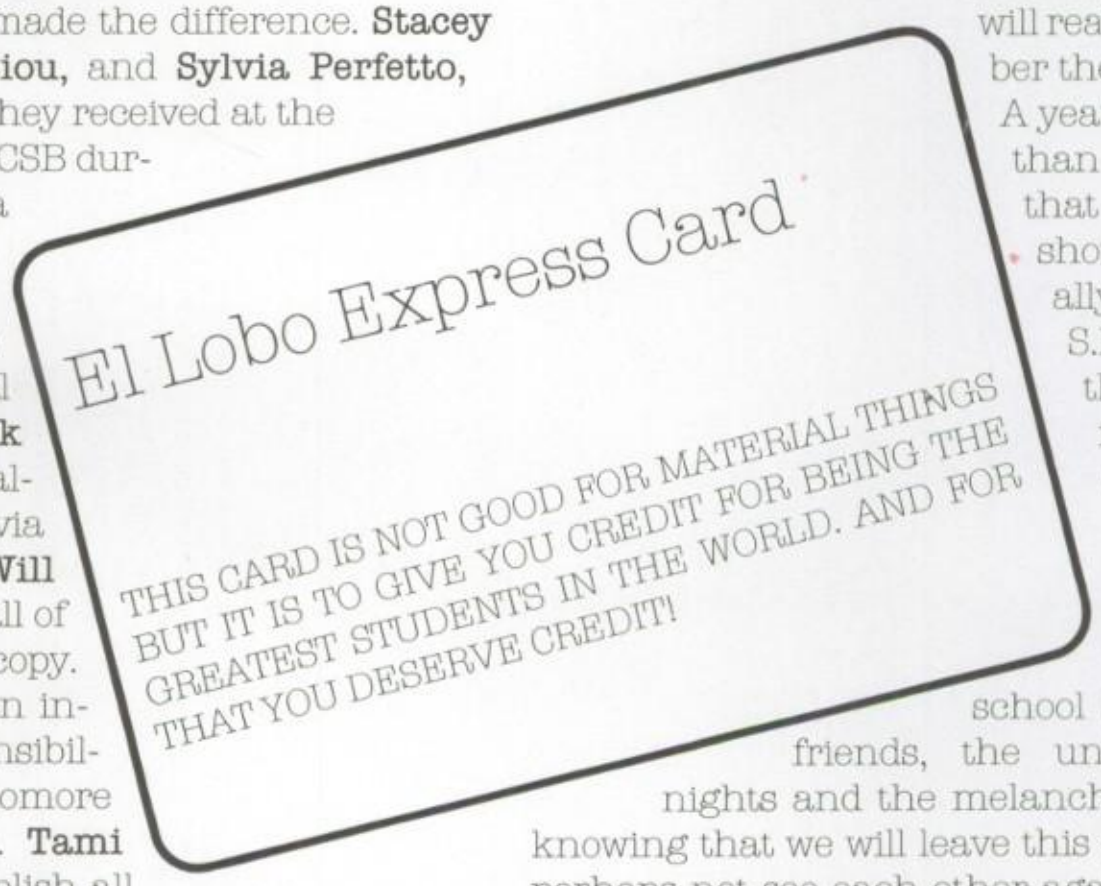
Editors' Perspective

Capturing the memories and faces of the previous year, and putting them in a very unique book took a special effort on the part of the entire staff, our advisor Kris Donovan, Dave Setnicker our representative from Hunter Publishing, and Focal Point Photography Studio.

While Mrs. Donovan was on Maternity leave for the first six weeks of school, we had the privilege of working with a very patient, very kind substitute Mrs. Anderson. She was a big help during an extremely important time in the production of a yearbook.

This years staff was a great group of people who really worked hard to pull together as a team to create a memorable book. But some special attention should be given to a few outstanding individuals whose extra work and determination made the difference. Stacey Stillwagon, Dez Anastasiou, and Sylvia Perfetto, with the extra education they received at the Yearbook Conference at UCSB during the summer, put in a tremendous amount of overtime and talent into their combined effort on layout design and original stories. Kathy Nowacek used her special artistic talent in designing the trivia page and the ad section, Will Gray was a big help with all of the sports layouts, and copy. Dianna Harms took on an incredible amount of responsibility including the sophomore section and club section. Tami Elbert was able to accomplish all her assigned work and take on other important duties at a moments notice. One of the most difficult and time consuming jobs, Business Manager, was handled in a very responsible and efficient manner by Kelly Marich. These people were a great help and we owe a special thanks to them and the entire staff. Our appreciation also goes out to the Herald and The Tribune for letting us use their extra sports candids.



El Lobo Express Card
THIS CARD IS NOT GOOD FOR MATERIAL THINGS
BUT IT IS TO GIVE YOU CREDIT FOR BEING THE GREATEST STUDENTS IN THE WORLD. AND FOR THAT YOU DESERVE CREDIT!

There were many changes in this year's book such as a new feature section, more printed copy, innovative design work, and an adventurous theme. Having two equal editors was another advantage we had, over the amount of work it takes to put together a yearbook.

This years staff took a big risk in creating a different and original book in comparison to previous El Lobo yearbooks. This book makes a statement about what this school is made of and what this generation stands for. We know that this book will remain on your bookshelves, but we hope that it will really help you to remember the 1985-86 school year. A yearbook should be more than just nameless faces that time can distort. It should enable you to actually step back onto the S.R. campus to restore the feeling of what being a high school student is like. It should recapture the angry glare of a teacher, the endless hours of studying, school food, the laughter of friends, the unforgettable Saturday nights and the melancholy that we all share knowing that we will leave this school, this town, and perhaps not see each other again. This is our legacy, our testament to the class of '86 and our last glimpse of high school life as we move on to even bigger enterprises.

GOOD LUCK —

Dez Anastasiou Allison Schlesinger

to keep in touch. always remember back to these days when we are having cocktails w/ our husbands (I'll never be able to stay w/ one guy.) ☺ I hope you will be able to spend time with my Michael Jenior. If your daughter ever asks you what you were like in High School. Here's a quote from me.

"I She was a wild girl who was shy at times...but watch out if she likes someone. The guys thrive over her body but are scared for a serious relationship. She's sort of dinsy ... But that's what makes her so much fun. I can see her having 2 girls and totally lovins them. She's a great gal ... and I love her with all of my heart."

NICOLE SELINGER

You better always send me a birthday present. Especially if your mom gets me one ☺! Well my boy wants have to be ...

I love you dearly
I'll miss you very much.

Well, I don't know where to begin... 7th grade ::: We've been such buddies for 9000 long! That's like ½ my life. We've signed so many yearbooks. So I deal with mainly this year. It seems weird to be writing you a like everyone else because I'm not just anyone... I'm your best friend. We probably don't need to write because the feelings in my heart will never leave me. The memories we've shared will put smiles on my face.. and of course frowns unless I forget the bad part. Most of our best stories have been when we get in trouble. We have done that much to often this year. When we had people to your house when your parents were gone... and they stopped by and came into your room and found Matt. n. d. Oh god. and this even. Makes me giggle now when we were riding double on your moped (I was driving) and we saw your mom so I quickly turned up the street and ran in the bushes. Then Mrs. C pulls up. I was so embarrassed. Oh and what about the time in Newport when we told those totally fine rich guys at the ocean that we were in college (UC Berk) and they felt stupid because the were only "Seniors in high school) I could have killed myself. We've gone thru just so many weird stages. Boy crazy stages, boy friend stages, etc. Weird ones. Our friendship has always come back together even after wars... I mean wars. This shows alot. I can only pray that we will continue
